We faced it together

It was a year we faced many surprises. One of the most notable was the change in parking. With the construction taking place, it was difficult to find a good place to park. Another surprise was a telephone call the school received one morning in December. A bomb threat led to five hours of either listening to Christmas carols at Wawasee Heights Baptist Church or sitting on hard bleachers at the Syracuse Elementary School gym.

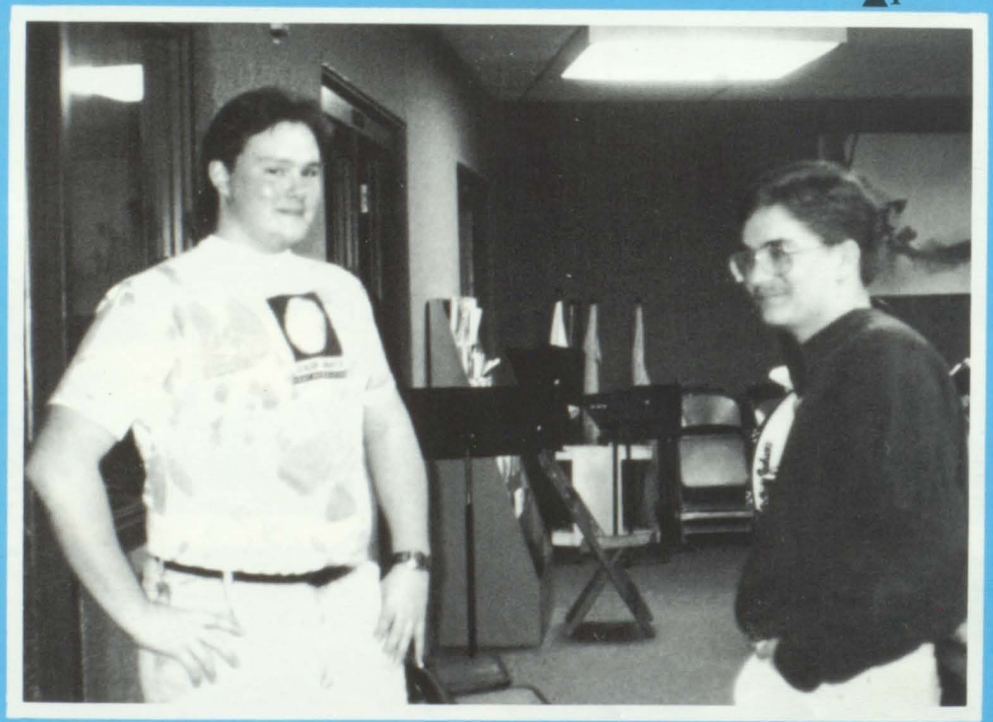

We also faced the stresses of school: homework, exams, peers, and teachers. We enjoyed sports activities, cheering the athletes onto victories and in the end, we faced graduation and receiving the diplomas we worked so hard to get. It was truly a year to remember.

Academic teams stay strong

Wawasee's academic teams have been competing for six years, but this was only their second year in the Academic Super Bowl. The topic last year was the first half of the European Renaissance, and so this year they studied the second half of the European Renaissance. There were three important meets in the academic teams' schedule: the conference invitational which was held March 12-19; the sectional which was held April 21; the state meet which was held in May for those teams who won sectionals. There were six academic teams: the social studies team coached by Mr. Gingerich; the math team coached by Miss Kline; the science team coached by Mrs. Schumm; the English team coached by Mrs. Lant; the fine arts team coached by Mrs. Parr and Mrs. Hursh; and the all-around team coached by Mrs. Hursh. The teams were very challenging academically and covered much more than classroom work.

Rockin' thru the ages

"Rockin' thru the Ages" was the theme of homecoming. Each grade was given a certain decade for the week: the seniors were the 80's; juniors were the 60's; sophomores had the 50's; and the freshmen were the 70's. The seniors won the overall competition. The juniors came in second place; freshmen third; and the sophomores fourth. Throughout the week there were spirit days. There was class color day; rockin' thru the ages day, where each class represented their decade of music; green and gold day; tie day; and hat day. On Tuesday night there was an ice cream social, and following that was the talent show. There was a parking lot bash held on Wednesday night where an old car was brought in and students paid $.25 to smash the car. On Friday night the varsity football team played Fort Wayne Harding. During half-time Mark Nicolai and Amy Rinehold were named homecoming king and queen, with runners-up Aaron Sincroft and Cindy Cobbum. Following the game there was a dance sponsored by the cheerleaders featuring hundreds balloons and fog.

Exchange students from Europe

The students of Wawasee were fortunate to have five foreign exchange students. They were Manuel Gallar, a senior; Mikko Ruuskanen, a junior; Paivi Heikkila, a junior; Melanie Kohler, a junior; Kristoffer Sjelberg, also a junior. All five of the students were from Europe. Some of them were in extra curricular activities. Paivi was in girls' swimming; Manuel and Kristoffer were in boys' swimming; also, Kristoffer was in marching band and symphonic band, playing with the percussion section. All of the foreign exchange students went through commencement and other senior activities, even though Manuel was the only one who was in the senior class. They were all great people and the student body wished them luck in their home countries.

"The Prince is Giving a Ball"

The fall musical, Cinderella was held November 22-23. Cinderella was a fairy tale that blended a children's story with adult humor. The musical was in rehearsal from the end of September to November for 2-3 hours a night. The director was Cyndi Thornburg; Karen Parr, assistant director; publicity, Charlotte Tyree; music director, Tom Beckett. Stage managers were Ryan Van Hook, Michelle Replogle, William Bryant, and Nicole Bickel. Lynn Griffith was in charge of costumes; Heather Waldrop was the rehearsal accompanist; Jamie Conkling and Abbie Johnson were student assistants; Bill Maloney was the poster and program designer; Jack Parr was in charge of all the set construction; Heather Fancher and Bill Maloney painted the sets; Jamie VanLue and Sean Arnold were in charge of the lights.

Rough and tough games

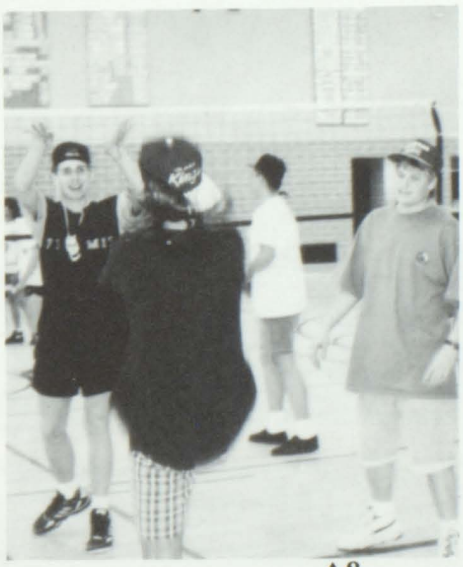

▲7

In basketball intramurals there were 12 teams of students involving almost 100 players, all male. These players had to have a D or above average to participate, just like the varsity athletes. All teams played either Tuesday or Wednesday from 6:00 until about 9:00 PM. There were certain rules that had to be followed. If a player fouled out of two games, he was removed from intramurals for the rest of the season. Team "X" won the exciting tournament at the end. Playing for "X" were Spencer Long, Matt McClintick, Byron Kaufman, Mason Robbins, Aaron Sincroft, Chad Dippon, Matt Wilkinson, Matt Beer, Jeremy Price and Toby Edmonds.

Volleyball intramurals took place second semester. There were approximately 300 students that participated, forming 18 teams of both girls and boys. They played by all the rules that the high school girls' teams used. The same academic requirements applied to these athletes. A double elimination tournament was held to end the season.

Murder Absolutely

Absolutely Murder was a "who-done-it" play that took place in a deserted gunpowder factory. The play centered around the search for a butcher knife murderer who could be any one of the characters including three crazy girls, their impersonator doctor, a real estate agent or even a disappearing corpse. The main character, Kate, searched with her rival boyfriends for the murderer, knowing that she was probably the next victim. The play was filled with action, suspense, and humor. The directors were Mrs. Parr and Mrs. Thornburg; costumes, Lynn Griffith; stage managers, Nicole Bickel and Heather Fancher; set construction, Jack Parr and Michelle Lauer; technical assistance, Jeremy VanLue; assistant stage manager, Jennifer Leslie; make up, Christine Langford; poster design and program cover, Bill Maloney.

Look who's talking

Throughout the year the administration scheduled speakers and groups of people to speak to the student body on all types of different subjects. They tried to have one convocation a month, but this year there were only four. In the fall and early spring there was a special leadership program at Camp Mack that over 200 students were able to attend. It involved getting into groups and sharing ideas and learning how to work with people. The first convocation at the school was entitled "Code Blue," sponsored by Campus Life, a Youth for Christ group. This was a multi-media program with popular music telling the students the dangers of using drugs and alcohol and how quickly they could end a person's life. The group came back that night to offer more information about Campus Life during a pizza party they threw for the students. The second speaker of the year was Dr. Bartlett. He spoke on his own life, of being raised with a severe handicap, overcoming it, and eventually getting a Ph.D. His speech was based on a book he wrote called Macaroni at Midnight. The last convocation was a soap opera fill-in, stunt man for Robin Williams, Mr. Dennis O'Neil. Mr. O'Neil did a lot of funny movie star impressions including Popeye, Elvis, Rocky Balboa, and even Elmer Fudd. He gave his own personal testimony of how he did drugs and alcohol growing up in Brooklyn. He believed that if students don't do drugs, they have the potential of being much more than they think.

Here we grow again

When the school board approved the $8 million new addition, it began a long journey for both the contractors and for the students themselves. The loud noises and the shaking of the classrooms were annoying and disturbing, and it was difficult to listen to the teachers' lectures. The school had to change the parking for the students, and it was crowded. The school also had to change fire drill procedures, and it was a little cold in the building thanks to the windows being knocked out and replaced with plywood. There also was a little humor involved with the birds in the building, flying wildly. The students also said goodbye to the old courtyard. Having 24 new rooms to look forward to, however, compensated for the inconvenience.

"WE FACED OUR SENIOR YEAR TOGETHER"

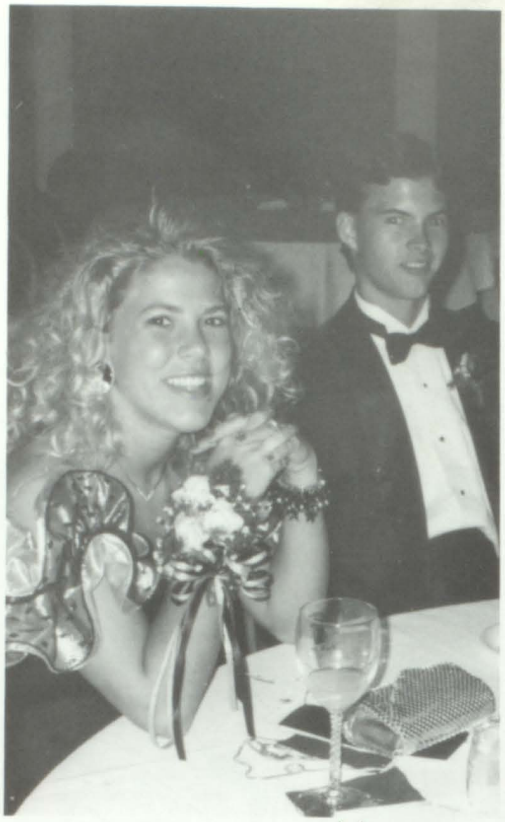

Truly "Unforgettable"

It was a night that no one will soon forget, Prom 1992; it was unforgettable. This was a night that many spent months planning for, also a night full of special memories. It was a very elegant evening, seeing classmates in a way that they had never been seen before, almost to the point of not recognizing who that sophisticated person was leaning against the wall.

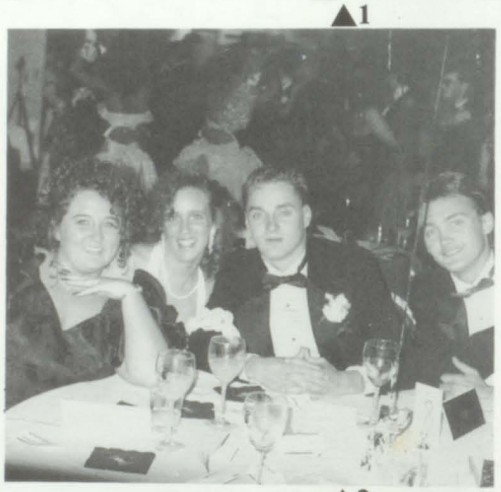

Everyone danced to the sounds of First Impressions and enjoyed themselves. Sponsor Mr. Metcalf remarked, "It was a wonderful evening. This is the best prom I have ever attended, and I am not just saying that. It is true." Co-sponsor Mrs. Leach said, "It went very smoothly. We had a very dedicated decorating/prom committee."

The prom itself was very elegant. It was held at Greencroft Center, Saturday evening, May 16. As the couples walked in under a staircase, Ashley Dick and Jonah Beer announced them. The class toast was given by toastmistress April Bornman. The Prom King was Chris Requejo and the Prom Queen was Julie Hodgson.

At the after prom, the class of 1992 enjoyed basketball, volleyball, and movies until the hypnotist arrived. Once Swami the Great came, everyone was seated in the bleachers as Amy Dull, Shantel Miller, Eric Streby, Matt Johnson, Robbie Chalk, and Stephanie Stufflebeam were hypnotized. They finally awoke to bananas on their faces, sugar cones and magazines in their clothes and lollipops in their hands. The after-after prom trip was to Cedar Point. The night was truly "Unforgettable."

The road to success begins

On Sunday afternoon, May 31, 178 seniors marched into the gymnasium for the last time as students of Wawasee High School. One hour and fifteen minutes later, they were graduates of the class of 1992. After welcomes by superintendent Dr. Roger Thornton and senior class president April Bornman, the class marched into the gym as Mr. Dennis Friesen-Carper directed the symphony orchestra in "Pomp and Circumstance," accompanied by Mr. Phillip Fawley on the organ. Jill Hoffert, a member of the class of 1992, gave the invocation. Jennifer Lotter introduced the salutatorian Eric Hess, who used a quote from Thoreau as the basis for his address. Julie Hodgson introduced valedictorian Karen Yoder who looked back on her high school career with humor.

Before the presentation of diplomas, Mr. Nyle Fox, principal, presented the first Wawasee honorary diploma to Mr. Donn Kesler, retiring as vice-principal from WHS after 24 years. Mr. Kesler received a cap and gown as well as a diploma from Dr. Thornton.

In his remarks to the class, Mr. Fox challenged them to live good lives, using Dr. Bartlett, a convocation speaker earlier in the year, as a model for personal achievement and helping others. With Mr. Lobsiger reading the names, diplomas were then presented to 174 graduates and 4 foreign exchange students. Tassles were turned and the candlelighting ceremony began as Mr. Tom Beckett led the commencement choir in "Forever Friends." Classmate Chris Calhoon gave the benediction, and the class of 1992 left the gym with their motto as a guide: "If we cannot find/The road to success,/We will make one."

Last impressions

The class of '92 definitely had their share of fun, but along with that fun they left a lasting impression in their final year. Homecoming was the first big event for the seniors. They pulled together and took first place in the skit, fall fling, and window decorations, causing the seniors to win first place overall. The seniors placed third in collecting money for Penny Pitch, putting forth great effort. The government and economics classes held the National Convention; Chris Calhoon was elected President and Chadd Bartlett, Vice President on the Democratic ticket. This was the first time the Democrats have won in the history of Wawasee. Much of the second semester was spent making plans for the prom to be held in May at Greencroft Center in Goshen and graduation.

In Memory

God's Kind Care

God hath not promised
Skies always blue,
Flower-strewn pathways,
All our lives thru;
God hath not promised,
Sun without rain,
Joy without sorrow,
Peace without pain.
God hath not promised
We shall not know
Toil and temptation,
Trouble and woe;
He hath not told us
We shall not bear
Many a burden,
Many a care.
God hath not promised
Smooth roads and wide,
Swift, easy travel
Needing no guide,
Never a mountain,
Rocky and steep,
Never a river
Turbid and deep:
But God hath promised
Strength for the day,
Rest for the labor,
Light for the way,
Grace for the trials,
Help from above,
Unfailing sympathy
Undying love.

JUNIORS

The juniors had another wonderful year. They fell short to the sophomores and seniors at fall fling placing third, but bounced back to do well in the penny pitch, collecting $742.00, 30% of the school total. They began planning for next year's Senior activities. Their money making project, selling candy and cookies, earned them $6414 toward that goal.The juniors were required to take English and U. S. history, this being the year they began specializing in either college prep or vocational classes. They were well on their way to becoming fine seniors for next year.

SOPHOMORES

The first major event for this class was homecoming activities. Even though they came in last in the school competition, they worked hard on their skit and window display. By Christmas they got it in gear, raising a grand total of $755.12 for the penny pitch. It earned them first place in the class competition, and it was the first time a sophomore class had ever won. As is tradition, the sophomores put on the annual chicken barbecue in May to help build their treasury for their senior activities. It was a great success.

FRESHMEN

This class was the largest freshman class in Wawasee history. They really got a jump on high school life, working hard at penny pitch, homecoming, and setting high goals for magazine sales. During homecoming week the freshmen won the lip sync, lost to seniors in powder puff, and finished third overall. During the penny pitch they raised $431.74, contributing over 17% of the total amount raised. The annual magazine sale was started on February 26, with a goal of $20,000 to be raised. After their tremendous start at Wawasee, even more great things could be expected from this hard working class.

Many memories made

The busy year started with the outstanding performance of the marching band. They received first places in all of the summer parades they marched in: the Mermaid Festival Parade in North Webster; the Ethnic Festival Parade in South Bend; and the Three Rivers Parade in Fort Wayne. Then they dove into the field competition. The band marched at every football game and at several nearby invitationals. They then received a first division rating at the IHSMA district contest which enabled them to advance to the regional contest. There, the Marching Warrior Pride received a second division rating and spirits were low, but they did get the highest score in competition in the whole history of Wawasee.

After marching band was over, the band split up to make symphonic and concert bands. The symphonic band played the most difficult music in the school history. They played music by Mozart, Bach, Sousa and an extremely challenging piece by Elliot del Borgo. The concert band played selections such as "Under the Sea."

At the Corporation Music Festival the symphonic and concert bands played music from the popular James Bond movies and "Climb Ev'ry Mountain." Overall the bands had an extremely successful year.

Successful year in art

The art department had several different classes to offer to the student body: basic art, crafts, oil painting, water color, acrylic painting, drawing, and commercial design.

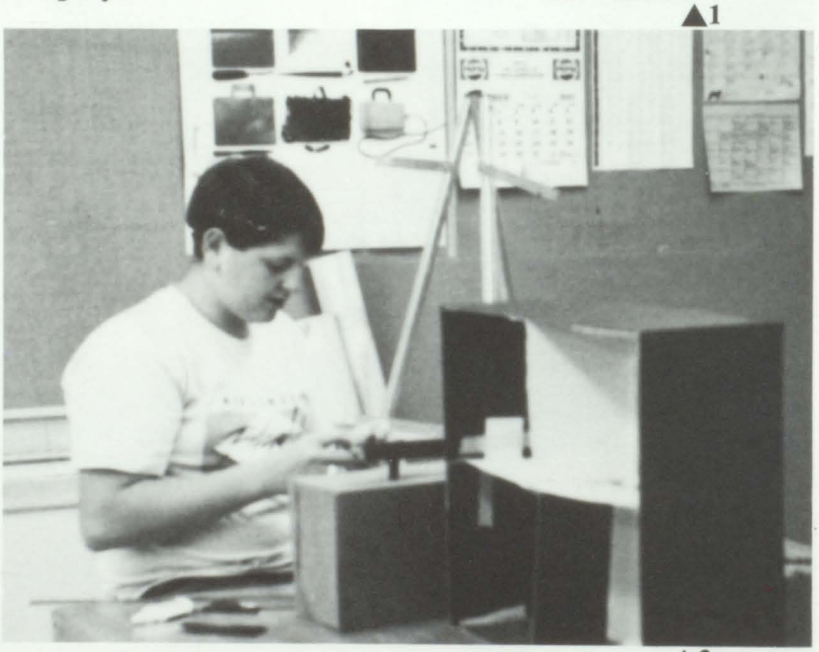

Throughout the year they had activities involved with projects and different techniques associated with specific levels and areas of study. At the end of all this, they held an art show on April 24 and 25. That is where the students got to show off their talents and abilities. Students said they enjoyed art and the varieties of subjects they got to draw. They also said they liked the different levels of difficulty they had to display.

Tune in on this note . . .

The Varsity Singers and Dream Company were very successful. They held many fund raisers which included selling pizzas, video coupon books, and breakfast biscuits. The money raised went toward the trip many of the members took to Philadelphia. While in Philadelphia on May 8-10, the singers competed in the Freedom Festival.

Both Varsity Singers and Dream Company competed in many contests. In December the Varsity Singers were on television for the program "Sounds of the Holidays." In February the singers put in fine performances at the state jazz competition. Varsity Singers and Dream Company received a superior rating in vocal jazz and Dream Company received a Division II rating in show choir. Both of the choirs held over twenty outside concerts a year. Individuals that showed outstanding performances at state included Heather Waldrop, piano; Jamie Conkling, Brian Kern, Christy Gaston, Karena Zimmerman, and Kathy Roose, vocal solo.

Sounds of music

The choirs had a year filled with many concerts. They performed in the annual Christmas concert and also the Corporation Music Festival in March entitled "At the Movies." They helped to raise money for the music department with the sale of candy bars. Students were placed in a choir based on their singing abilities. Concert choir was a mixture of students from all four grades. The treble choir consisted of only girls that sang in the alto and soprano range. The mixed choir was made up of freshmen. All of these choirs were directed by Mr. Beckett.

Stringing in success

The orchestra had a very successful year. They started by raising money in the annual music department candy sale to purchase new uniforms. In March they began two other fund raisers. The first was the sale of Warrior Bucks, video rental coupons, and the second was a pizza sale. The money raised from these two sales went towards payments for the students to take a trip to Philadelphia over Mother's Day weekend and perform in the Freedom Festival. This was the first trip for the orchestra in six years.

During the solo and ensemble contests the orchestra showed even more success. Senior Karen Yoder received a first division rating for her violin solo at state, and the chamber orchestra came home with a second division rating. The whole orchestra competed in a large group contest in April.

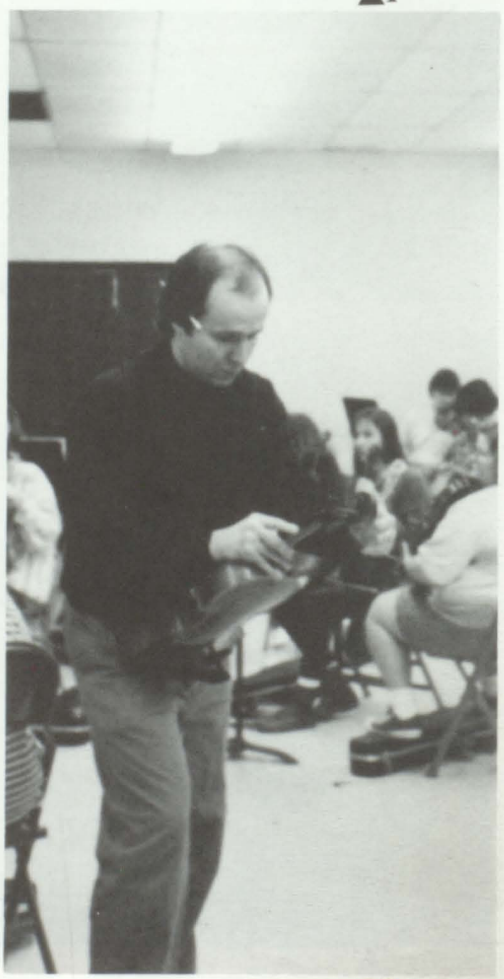

With the large freshman class the orchestra was made up of mostly underclassmen. These students worked well with the upperclassmen, had much to offer, and showed a lot of promise for upcoming years. The orchestra was exposed to a new form of learning this year as string specialists were brought into the school to work with the students on different techniques and other helpful ideas on how to be a better player. The orchestra director, Mr. Friesen-Carper, felt the orchestra accomplished many difficult tasks, and did so due to an increase in individual responsibility, and felt he could expect even more great things in the future.

The world of business

The business department was made up of four faculty members: Mr. Minton, Mrs. Huber, Mr. Storey, and Mr. Murphy. The business department offered twelve different classes. These classes included accounting, keyboarding, computer application, marketing, and advanced business.

In the keyboarding classes the first semester, students learned the general operation of the typewriter. The second semester they set up letters and used the correct forms. Business teachers believed this class should be required because computers were becoming more common and more frequently used in homes.

The introduction to business class was involved in a state-wide stock market gain. It ran for 10 weeks and there were 5 teams (5 members each). Each team was given an imaginary $100,000 to invest in the stock exchange. One team was ranked 34 out of 411 teams.

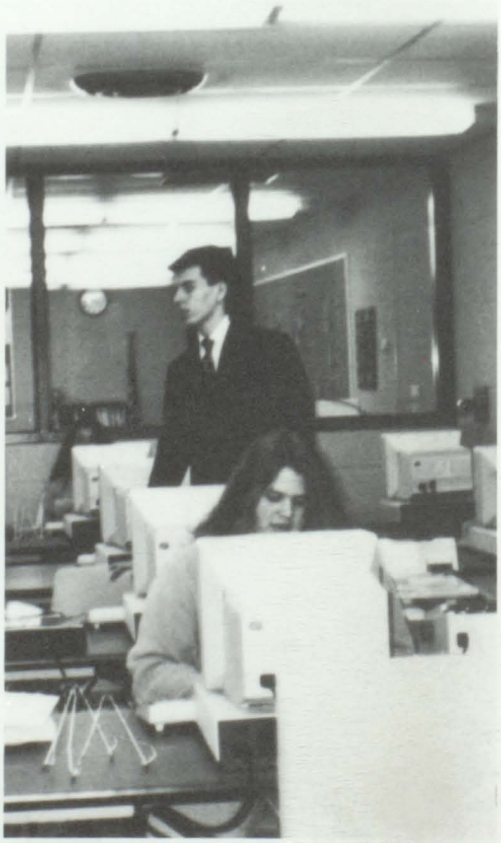

Marketing taught the students how to organize, build, and work in retail business, giving them a basic understanding of the free enterprise system.

Doing their best

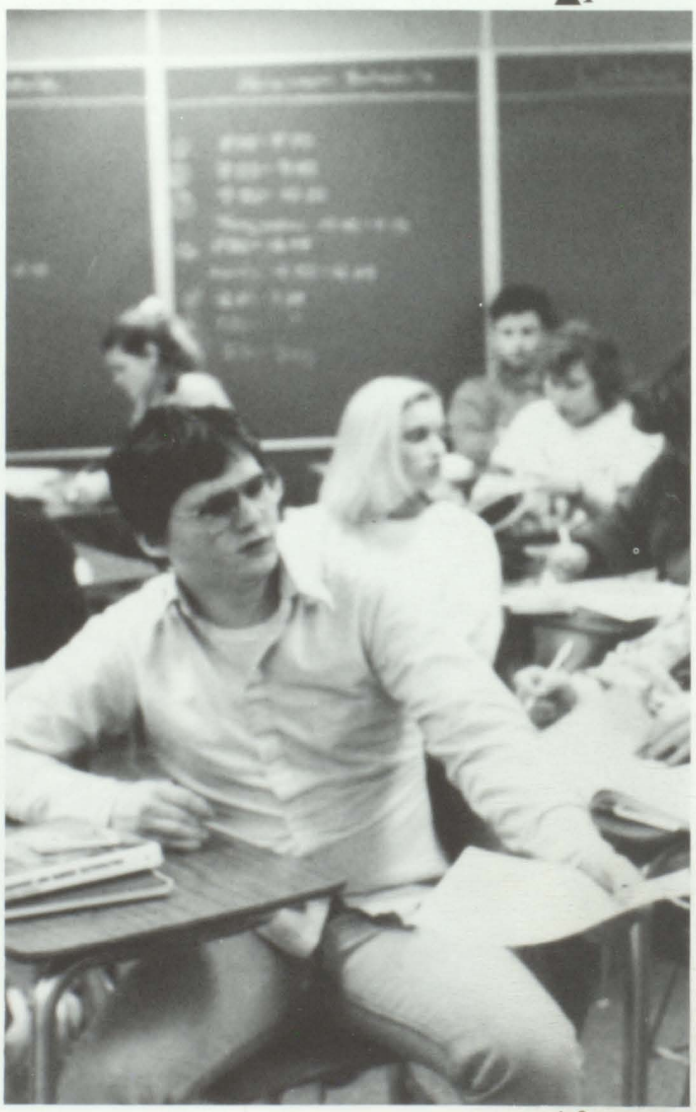

"If there is a word of advice I could give, it would have to be take as many math classes as you can take, and do the best you can do in them," stated Mr. Bradley. There were a variety of classes that students could take from pre-algebra, which covered the basics, to calculus, which dealt with the more advanced side of math. The math department spent the year working on a variety of things. One of them was the picking out of the new books for next year. Every six years the math department adopted new textbooks. The department also worked on their move to the second floor once the new addition was finished.

A year of many changes

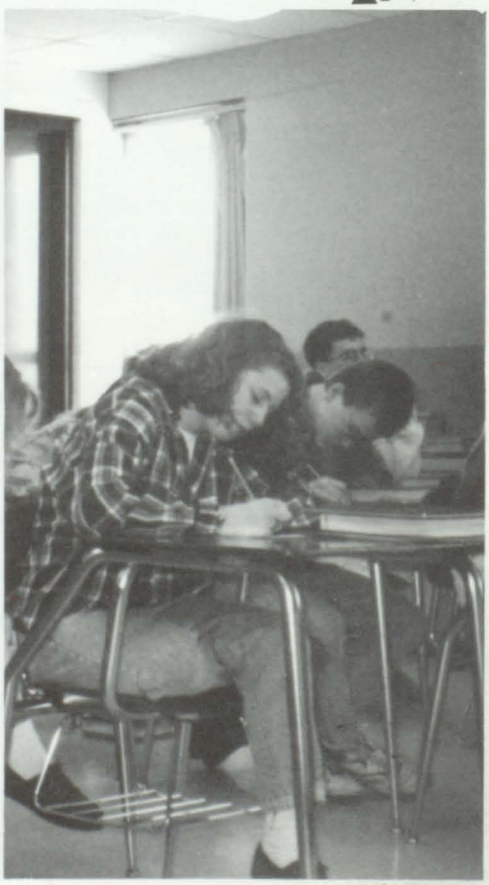

There were many changes throughout the year for language arts. First, they had two new teachers. Mrs. Lant replaced Mr. Fawley, who retired at the end of the 1991 school year. Mrs. Moss took over for Mrs. Tyree, who was on maternity leave for second semester. Second, the noise of the new construction was very distracting for the language arts classes. They felt the floor shake and windows rattle and had construction workers hanging outside the windows on scaffolding. The staff also spent much of their time working on equipment choices for their new rooms in the addition, once it was completed. It was a year of changes for the English department.

Supportive staff has busy year

The cooks prepared two meals a day for a while. For a month they served breakfast, but it was discontinued due to lack of interest. They served more sandwiches and french fries on the main line due to demand, and added more snack items on the ala carte line, including Nestles Quick drink.

The custodians also had a very busy year. Byron Oswald and Dave Franklin became a part of the staff. They tried a new summer cleaning program which involved all of the janitors from our school corporation. Everybody got together to clean the buildings one at a time. The janitors had the P. E. gym completely refinished and painted, and diving equipment and starting blocks from the pool area were removed. They also rewired and carpeted the industrial technology room. These things kept the supportive personnel very busy.

Languages travel around

There were many different classes available in the foreign language department. French, Spanish, and German offered classes I through IV. The Spanish I classes had a delicious time eating Mexican food. The Spanish II classes went to see the Alejandra Dondines Dance Troupe in Ft. Wayne. The German classes took part in the Foreign Language Festival at IPFW with quite a large group participating. The German classes also arranged an exchange program. Twelve German students arrived on April 13 for several weeks. In June, six Wawasee students, Matt Wilkinson, James Hoover, Steve Yargosz, Mason Robbins, Andrew Miller, and Courtney Fryback, traveled to Germany. The French III classes went to Chicago where they visited the Art Institute and ate in a French style bistro.

Let's study socially

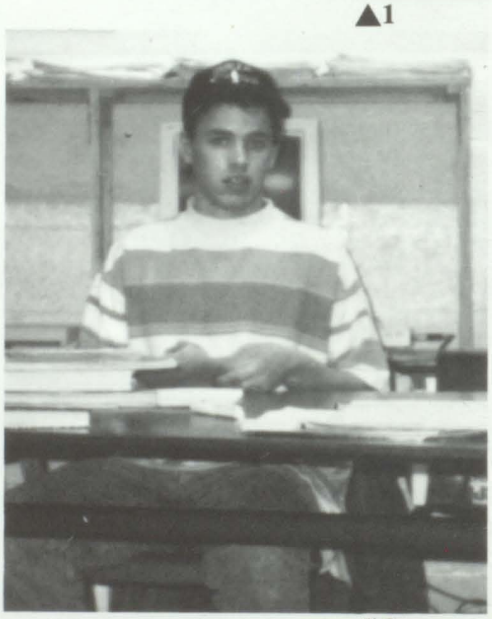

The social science department studied subject areas from history to psychology to economics. The seniors held a political convention in November. Students had to create parties, join them, nominate candidates, write platforms and hold press conferences. The mock convention in government nominated Matt Johnson and Aaron Sincroft on the Republican ticket and Chris Calhoon and Chadd Bartlett on the Democratic ticket. For the first time in Wawasee history, the Democrats pulled off the win. In economics seniors had a consumer economic unit which went through the process of getting married, planning budgets, and choosing careers. In psychology, students held experiments like blindfolding each other and going through home-made mazes with their fingers. All in all, the social science department offered a variety of experiences.

Working for a healthy future

Mr. Lambert taught all of the health classes. The health/science course was a study of topical units to help students develop and understand the proper attitude toward health concepts such as mental health, appearance, behavior, and drug education. Mr. Lambert stated that the students' reactions were mostly positive and that the sex education class was the most informative and beneficial for them.

The careers/Quest classes were taught by Mr. Aalbregtse and Mrs. Sumpter. They felt the most helpful part of the Quest course was the opportunity for the students to be comfortable and talk about problems which dealt with peer pressure, friends, family and dating. They had numerous guest speakers such as lawyers, police officers and photographers for the careers section of the course. During careers, students picked areas of interest and went through the process of getting a job. They made their resumes, letters of inquiry, applications and learned about interviews.

Home Economics really cooks

The home economics program offered a variety of learning opportunities for all grade levels. Many different classes were available. Foods I touched on all the cooking basics, while Foods II planned full meals and explored more complex cooking methods. The sewing class made a clothing item and some crafts. Family relations helped students understand family life and relationships. The child development classes learned how to care for children and even brought in kids for a half day to be observed. An interior design class was also a part of the curriculum. "We have a lot of fun combined with learning," said Mrs. Leach.

New computers a challenge

This was a year of challenge for the secretaries and aides. All of the secretaries had to learn about the new Columbia system through trial and error. Mrs. Bultemeier in guidance worked with student grades and records on the computer. Mrs. Garrett had to completely change the system of attendance and the manner in which it was recorded with the new system. The computer kept all the files and information about the student body. By the end of the year, things were working more smoothly. Other secretaries were busy with the construction paperwork and trying to keep the school running smoothly through all the construction chaos.

The future looks bright

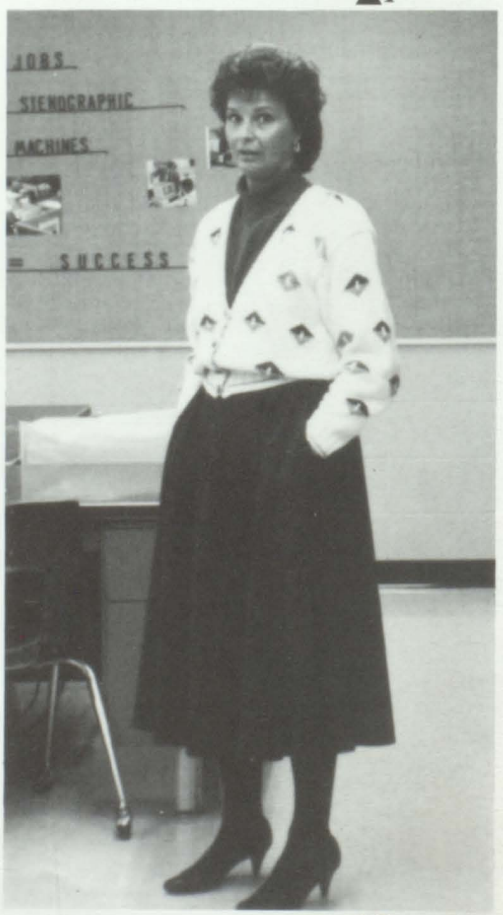

The vocational department offered many opportunities at Wawasee. One of these was Building Trades I and II. The building trades class finished one house in Country Cove and started another one there. In the ag-placement program students worked in ag-related and farm businesses. There were also classes in Auto Mechanics I and II where students worked on cars under the supervision of Mr. Craig. The secretarial office lab program was designed just like an office. Other vocational classes taught at other schools were Cosmetology I and II at Fairfield, and at West Noble, printing and graphics was offered.

Sciences involve everyone

The science department offered many classes for students. First, there was physical science which let students deal with the basics of science. Physical science was required of all freshmen. Biology was a class that gave students a chance to dissect and work with the microscopes. This was a required class for the sophomores. Next was a variety of classes which included: Chemistry I and II, human physiology and anatomy, genetics, and physics. These were all classes taken by mostly juniors and seniors. Besides the many classes that were taught, the teachers managed to stay busy all year due to the fact they had to pick out the equipment for the new addition.

On the road to fitness

The P.E. department added two new classes. One was physical education plus which could be taken for one semester or a whole year. Any grade level could join this class. Taught by Mrs. Sumpter, it had a good enrollment with 18 students first semester and 26 second semester. The other new class was athletic training taught by Mr. Aalbregtse. It was a one semester course. Other units included CPR, bowling, swimming, judo, field hockey, and folk dancing. This was the second year for APC (advanced physical conditioning), which was still increasing in numbers. There were 42 students that participated in this course. The P. E. department was busy all year staying in shape.

Industrial tech has many options

The industrial technology department had six areas of technological experience. The small engines class fixed engines on boats and even lawn mowers. The design class worked drawing and sketching architectural and machine projects. The CAD class (computer aided design system) designed houses. The manufacturing class enjoyed working in metals, welding and designing products. The construction class built storage sheds, dog houses and made models for bridges and tunnels to show how they were built. In communications they did advertisements and looked at the world of photography, using both still and video cameras.

New materials in the LRC

The staff in the library included Judy Thomas, Bill Guinther, and Jonie Christoffel. They added new materials for the CD-ROM, which included magazine article summaries and SIRS, and began cataloging new materials in full MARC format. The staff worked with a consultant to plan the new LRC's shelving and furniture. The librarians encouraged the faculty and staff to begin using video discs. Library volunteers included Mrs. Scott, Mr. Fawley, Mrs. Kern, Mrs. Robinson, and Mrs. Bame. They cut out articles for the vertical file, made copies, and did research for the LRC. Administration on top of things

The administration at Wawasee consisted of Mr. Fox, Mr. Kesler, Mr. Lobsiger and Mr. Traviolia. Each administrator played an important role in making it the best year it could be. In his third year as principal, Mr. Fox helped make the rules and regulations as well as the school schedule. The assistant principal, Mr. Kesler, purchased all the school's materials. Mr. Lobsiger, the dean of students, was in charge of student discipline and helped with attendance. Mr. Traviolia, athletic director, was responsible for all sports schedules, athletic supplies and coaches.

This was Mr. Kesler's last year at Wawasee due to his retirement. He had been at Wawasee since it was first built 24 years ago. "I see myself as not only as assistant to the principal, but as an assistant to anyone in need," said Mr. Kesler. He will be greatly missed.

Helping students prepare

Once again the guidance office was busy with ISTEP, PSAT, DATB, and ASVAB tests. They also spent their time registering new students, working with schedules and helping upperclassmen plan for their futures. The guidance office also began preparing for the addition to the school by choosing new furniture and an updated office plan with computers.

The special needs department also spent time planning for their move to their new facilities in the remodeled science rooms. One change they experienced this year was the addition of a new resource teacher, Mrs. Allender, who became the emotionally handicapped consultant.

Golfers have young leadership

The Warrior girls' golf team was led by young talent. There were no returning seniors on the team, and there was only one returning player. Amber Esenwein managed to turn in many great scores all season. Amber also was the low score medalist against Goshen with a 48. One of the team's best matches was against West Noble when they turned in their best overall round in years.

All of the girls turned in career bests and beat West Noble 203-213. The teams' overall record was 2-16, and they finished fourth in final conference standings. Amber Esenwein, a sophomore, was the captain of the team. The manager of the team this year was Michelle Replogle. Amber was the MVP, and she also won the low point award.

Falling short

The Wawasee varsity football team fell short this season, with a record of 0-9. Even though their record might not have shown it, the Warriors fought hard, both defensively and offensively. The captains this year were quarterback Mark Nicolai, fullback Junior Cantu, and tight end and linebacker Kyle Newcomer. These three players showed excellent leadership qualities.

The J.V. football team had a very short season this year with their record being 0-3. Jeff Roose, a J.V. football player, stated, "We never gave up; we always kept fighting back."

The freshman football team ended with an 1-5 record. Coach VanLue said, "They were a really good team."

Cross country runs regionals

The girls' cross country team record of 7-2 reflected a team effort. The girls relied on everyone on the team to contribute and thus advanced to regionals. They all ran well at regionals, placing sixth. Honorable mention went to Mel Hobbs for breaking a 20 year high point record with 59 points. Other awards included Angie Garner, MVP and low point runner-up; Jami Emmert, low point; Mel Hobbs and Tiffany Titus, captains.

The boys' cross country team had a 6-3 season. Throughout the season, the team was led by five different individual runners. This made it hard to determine who would run at regionals, but it also made the team stronger overall. Team captains were Eric Streby and Matt Johnson. Award winners were Eric Streby, MVP and low point; Toby Edmonds and Ryan Shoemaker, low point runner-ups; Mike Atkins, outstanding achievement.

Warriors shut out opponents

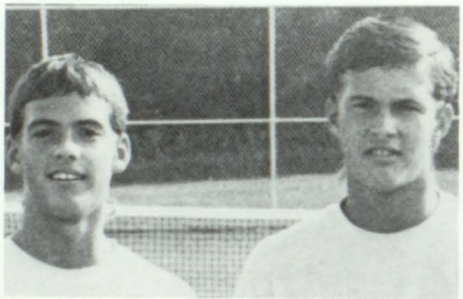

The Warrior boys' tennis team had a record of 10-6. They achieved shutouts against West Noble, Central Noble, Columbia City, Jimtown, Whitko and Manchester. They also had a win at Laville, took a second at the Wawasee Invitational, and took fifth at NLC. These Warrior netters got to the second round of sectionals where they lost to Warsaw 4-1. Mason Robbins was the lone win at sectional with a hard fought three set victory. He went on to the finals of sectional, losing to Jason Evers of Northwood. The individual award winners were Mason Robbins, MVP; Daren Wagoner, mental attitude; Chris Ganshorn and Scott Pelletier, most games won (varsity); Aaron Sincroft, Warrior award; Jason Ward and Aaron Sincroft, captains; Jason Angle, most games won (JV); Tony Ganshorn, most improved (JV).

Spikers improve

The varsity volleyball team had a much improved record of 11-19. Team captains were Trisha Mikel, April Bornman and Jodi Brumbaugh, all of whom showed excellent leadership qualities. The team was runner-up in the Wawasee Invitational and won the Westview Invitational. They competed in sectionals and placed runner-up to Northwood. It was the first time since 1985 that the volleyball team placed in double figures for season record wins and participated in the final match of sectionals. Brandi Bray was voted to the volleyball all conference team, and April Bornman made honorable mention. The winners of the awards were Brandi Bray, most valuable player; April Bornman, defense; Brandi Bray, offense; Jodi Brumbaugh, pride, hustle, desire; Trisha Mikel, most assists.

Young team makes waves

The Lady Warrior swimmers finished their season with a record of 10-5. Key members for the team were Sara Kline, Gretchen Naugler, Daniele Laub, Brandee Carlson, Caroline Weiss and Clarissa Dubois. Paivi Heikkila, an exchange student from Finland, was a great contribution to the team. When asked about this team, Coach Karns stated, "We had a really young team this year, a lot of freshmen. Our record was 10-5, which really surprised me. We improved a lot this year, and I hope we improve more in years to come." The captains of the team were Sara Kline and Brandee Carlson; managers were Andy Kryder and Eric Schaekel. Gretchen Naugler was named to the all NLC girls' swim team. The awards given were to Brandee Carlson, MVP; Ashley Dick, most improved; Laura Grothaus, coaches' award; and Gretchen Naugler, 110%. Wawasee placed fourth in final conference standings.

Ch-Ching

The girls' varsity basketball team had a record of 6-13. They opened their season well with a 46-35 win over Westview. Brandi Bray and Heather Perzanowski led the offense; April Bornman led the defense, and Gina Minton was the super sub. However, the season was up and down after that. At the end of the season a few of the players received outstanding rewards. Yen Tran and Brandi Bray were named to the all-conference team and April Bornman was named academic all state honorable mention.

The JV girls' basketball team had a winning season with a record of 9-7. They also opened their season well with a win over Westview 22-19. Christa Dippon led the team to that victory. The freshman girls' basketball team fell a little short this season with a record of 3-10. Their first win was over Elkhart, 36-18. The team was led by Jennie Boyer, Patrina Dalio, and Missy Corbat.

Tough times don't last

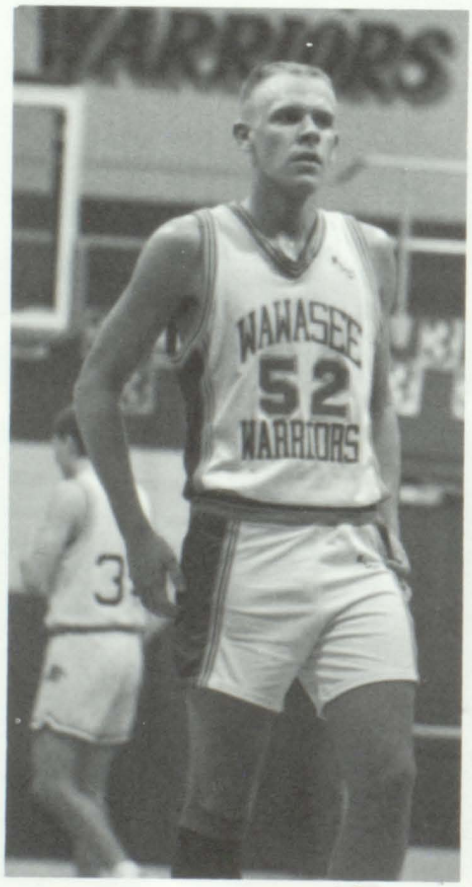

The Warrior basketball team started its season slowly by losing four games in a row. Then the Warriors found themselves in a nine game winning streak. This winning streak was the second longest in the history of Wawasee. They were 13-8 for the season and finished second in the NLC. This was the best placing in the past few years. Two members of the team, Mike Ferverda and Kyle Newcomer, were chosen to the NLC all conference basketball first team. Progress was evident in the season. The team was better at being able to handle the ball against full court pressure. Also, the team was able to start to control their individual emotions by not getting upset by the calls made by the referee and not getting upset if they were not hitting their shots. The team was able to focus better and get the job done. Coach Goshert stated, "I thoroughly enjoyed coaching these fine young athletes and seeing their progress from the beginning to the end of the season. I was also impressed with their ability to stay focused as they had to adjust and re-adjust. Tough times don't last; tough players do."

Flipping thru the season

The girls' gymnastics team had a winning season with a record of 10-3. The team had only two seniors, Mel Hobbs and Lisa Wight, who were both captains. The team was also ranked 13th in the state. Gymnastics was a very time consuming sport. The girls started practicing in November, even though their meets did not start until January. Their season lasted until the middle of March. This year the team went to sectionals where they placed third, qualifying them to go to regionals. The team placed sixth in regionals. The sectional and regional teams consisted of Lisa Wight, Mel Hobbs, Sarah Locke, Chelsi Mangona, and Liz Ringler. This year there were four awards given out. These awards included MVP to Sarah Locke; drive, desire, determination to Mel Hobbs; most improved to Liz Ringler; and JV award to Sadie Machan.

An outstanding year!

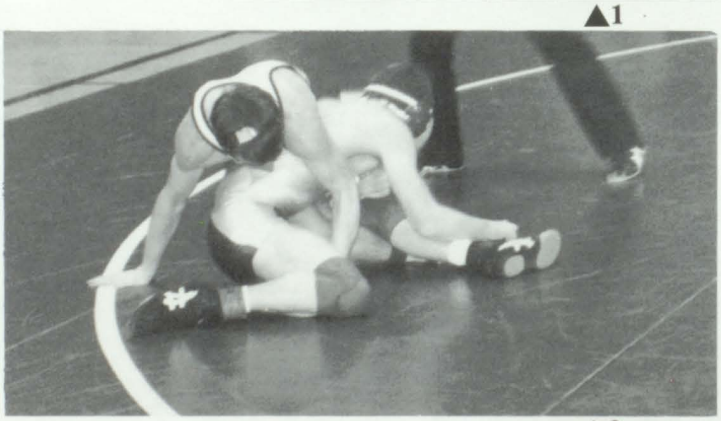

The wrestling team truly had an outstanding year. The team managed to pull down the NLC title. But that was just a start! They went on to win sectional, and then won regionals at Carroll with many great performances by Chris Requejo, Mike Atkins, Ryan Keiper, Tony Lund, Chris Henson, Brian Dutcher, David Antu, and Junior Cantu. Then the team headed to semi-state in which they placed ninth out of 44 teams. Chris Requejo won his weight class, and there were three first round winners. They were Chris Henson, Mike Atkins, and David Antu. Chris Requejo then headed to state along with Chris Henson as an alternate. Requejo went 4-0 for the day and became the third state wrestling champion in Wawasee's history. The end of the year awards were Chris Requejo, most takedowns, near fall 3, near fall 2, technical falls, and most valuable player; Brian Taylor, reversals, escapes; Tony Lund, fastest fall; Scott Richey, most improved; Ryan Merchant, outstanding J. V.; Brian Dutcher, falls; Scott Williamson, rookie of the year; Junior Cantu, mental attitude award.

Simply unbelieveable

The Warrior swimmers finished their season with a perfect record in the NLC and with a 13-1 record overall. During the season the swimmers set three meet records at the Goshen Relays, and Shon Davis set a new pool record in the 500 freestyle. The Warrior swimmers placed first in the NLC which was the first time ever, did well at sectional, and sent four swimmers to the state finals. Those swimmers were Shon Davis, Andy Kryder, Cory Manning and Eric Schaekel. Andy Kryder swam in the 100 freestyle and the 50 freestyle. In the 100 he placed fifth in the state; in the 50 he placed sixth. Andy was the highest placing sophomore in the state. The four swimmers swam the 200 and 400 freestyle relays. In the 200 they placed sixth and in the 400 they placed eleventh. As a team they placed twelfth in the entire state. The captains of the team were Cory Willard, Eric Schaekel, and Andy Kryder. The team managers were Sara Kline and Paivi Heikkila. Award winners were Shon Davis, coaches' award; Andy Kryder, MVP and hi-point; Scott Metcalf, 110% and most improved; Tony Ganshorn, coaches' award. Coach Karns said, "This is one of the best seasons we've ever had."

Gaining experience

Soccer as a varsity sport was still in its building stage but had many students come out for the team. Due to sickness and other circumstances, a couple of players were not able to play the whole season. The team had many first year players, but also had some returning players. Kim Nguyen and Pete Dudchenko scored their share of goals, and were key players to the Warriors' game. Troy Feaster, Matt Beer, and Ryan Vanhook also helped out the team with their experience and skills. The team had many close games, but by the beginning of May, only had pulled off a tie and not yet a win. Although they had not won yet, the team was gaining experience game after game and was working hard for a win. Coaching the team was Mr. Tom Beckett.

Sectional champs!

The Wawasee baseball team strove to build a sectional winning team such as they had last year. Coach Aalbregtse advanced to replace Mr. Frantz as varsity head coach, and Mr. Blunk served as his assistant. The team was led by seniors Tim Bradley, Shane Bucher, Ryan Coverstone, Kevin Lundy, Mark Nicolai and Aaron Sincroft. The team beat Columbia City, Elkhart Central and Fairfield early in the season, and they put it all together at sectional defeating Churubusco in the first game and Columbia City for the championship. They lost, however, in regional action against Huntington North by one one run. The junior varsity and freshman teams were led by new coach Mr. Boyce. The JV lost their opener to East Noble, but came back to defeat Elkhart Central. The freshman team began their season with a strong win over Concord.

Softball plays "hard"

The girls' softball team had many returning letter winners. They were Trisha Mikel, Fantasi Wagoner, Niki Corbat, Brandi Bray, Crystal Clipfell, Betsey Henderson and Angie Magiera. By the first of May, the girls had wins over Whitko and Northridge. The home softball games were all played at Vega Field. The varsity girls were coached by Mr. Replogle and the JV was coached by Mr. Bradley. Team captains were Trisha Mikel and Niki Corbat. The seniors on the team showed great leadership and helped the underclassmen throughout the season. Two freshmen were also part of the varsity team. They were Brandi Swope and Brandi Levernier. The girls showed great improvement as the season wore on and looked really promising for future years.

Ladies approach the net

The Lady Warrior tennis team started out with a boom. They won their opening match against Westview 5-0. They then defeated Central Noble 4-1. Winners were Olivia Searfoss, Yen Tran, Liz Whiteman, Christy Smith, Heather Perzanowski, and Erika Sincroft. The Lady Warriors lost hard fought matches to Concord and Goshen. The team captains were seniors Amy Rinehold, Christy Smith, and Heather Perzanowski. Key players for the JV were Erin Mills, Mia Rinehold, Julie Leedy and Becky Ray.

Staying on track

The girls' track team was prepared for many changes. The team consisted of mostly freshmen. There were only three seniors on the forty member team. They were Julie Hodgson, Mel Hobbs, and Sherrena Kirkwood. Mr. Akers was the head coach, but had a lot of help from the new assistant coach, Mr. Van Drie. This year the IHSAA rules changed. In previous years individuals qualified for sectionals by a time requirement. This meant that many teammates could participate in sectionals if they qualified. This year it got a lot harder. Now, only two individuals for each event per team could go to sectionals. There were no longer any time qualifications. This could help some teams, but not Wawasee. The team had many good runners in each event, and this made it hard to decide who would go to sectionals. The field events kept the team on top in many meets. Captains for the girls' track team were Julie Hodgson and Sherrena Kirkwood.

Swinging into action

The Wawasee boys' golf team had another strong year. By the first of May, the varsity and JV had defeated both South Bend Riley and Fairfield in a three way match. The JV was led by Jaime Hippe's 44 as the team shot a 183. The varsity was led by Brent Baker's 37 as they shot a 160. At the Northrop Invitational, Northrup finished first with a score of 306. The Warriors shot 334 and were led by Ben Brunner's 81. The Warriors also played at Lafayette in an invitational and at LaVille in their freshman-sophomore invitational. The members of the varsity team were Brent Baker and Jason Ward, seniors; Brian Baker, Tim Whiteman, and Randy Smith, juniors; Ben Brunner, sophomore; and Jamie Hippe, freshman. The members of the JV team were Tony Holterman, Jason Ross, Jeff Jarrett, Tad Denton, and Frank Slabaugh.

Track takes off

The boys' track team had a good year as Matt Johnson, Spencer Long, and Jim McIntosh led the team at the first of the season. Jim McIntosh broke the indoor high jump record with a leap of 6'6 at the Boiler Bomber Relays at Purdue University. The meet at Purdue consisted of 85 teams. Matt Johnson placed fifth in the 800 meter; Dan Duncan won his heat in the 400 meter; and Spencer Long won his heat in the 300 meter. The Warriors placed first in the Culver Military Invitational scoring over 20 points higher than the other five teams. They also took a first at Concord, beating the other two teams by ten and one half points. The team by the first of May was off to a fantastic start.

Sparks of enthusiasm

The cheerleaders added more spirit and enthusiasm through the school year. The cheerleaders started their season in the middle of summer by attending a camp at St. Mary's. They also rode in a boat in the Wawasee flotilla with the theme "Give a cheer for the USA" in July and received first place. The cheerleaders continued the mini-clinics that were started last year. There was one in the summer and one in the middle of winter. These were held for girls from kindergarten to eighth grade. The second clinic had a great turnout of approximately 120 girls. They performed a dance that they learned at the clinic at the halftime of a basketball game. During the sectional weeks, the squad organized spirit days and continued the tradition of playing music between classes. The warrior Brad Dunnick added a lot of enthusiasm to the season. The male lifters for varsity were Tim Bradley, Chris Calhoon, Mason Robbins, Jason Wells, Jeremy Sponseller, Ryan Coverstone. The JV lifters were Dan Duncan and Josh Wells. The varsity sponsor was Mrs. Goshert; junior varsity, Mrs. Cobbum; and Mrs. Evans was the freshman sponsor for the first year.

Brain waves in motion

The National Honor Society participated in a lot of different activities. They met once a month during homeroom to plan their group activities and other programs. In the fall they had a cookout at Heather Waldrop's house to get the year started. Then in December they helped count money during the annual penny pitch, and also helped deliver food to needy families around the community. There were two induction ceremonies during which the current members initiated the new members. In the spring they had another group outing, a picnic mainly for the graduating seniors. The NHS officers were Heather Waldrop, president; Trisha Mikel, vice-president; and Rita Beer, secretary-treasurer.

Small, but mighty

The Wawasee Future Homemakers of America were very busy. They were a small group of only five members, but accomplished many things. During the Christmas season they made presents for children at the Syracuse Lakeland Daycare Center and also for infants in the new Teen Parents Succeeding program. These gifts consisted of stuffed animals and sweatshirts made by the girls themselves. They often made cookies during their homeroom meetings while discussing different homemaking ideas. In the spring they made Easter baskets for the teachers. With the different school and community activities, the FHA grew in more than one way.

Writing skills

The purpose of the creative writing club was to provide an opportunity for students who shared an interest in creative writing to meet in an encouraging environment. They worked on several kinds of writing such as sensual writing and tape writing. Sensual writing was when they tasted and smelled different foods, and they wrote about them. They also touched different things. Tape writing was listening to ocean sounds and many other sounds and writing about what they heard. They also had a guest speaker, Joel Robbins. They organized a book and then put the book out in the spring. The officers for the club were Mike Howell, Tracy Hoverman, Erika Lozano, and Ken Turner; the sponsor was Mrs. Nance Bruce; the reporter was Melinda Gibbs.

Drama club sponsored three plays for students and adults to enjoy. The drama club's fall production was Cinderella, Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical adaptation of the famous fairy tale, presented November 22 and 23. Their spring production, Absolutely Murder, was a comedy/mystery presented March 27 and 28. In the spring they also produced a children's show, Rumplestiltskin. This was an audience participation play presented to grades 1-3 at the Wawasee Middle School on May 13. Drama club members met during club A homeroom days and helped behind the scenes and on stage for all the WHS productions. The sponsor for drama club was Cyndi Thornburg.

Key Club raises funds

The Key Club raised a great deal of money for charitable causes. One of the people they raised money for was Karo Coy, a young girl from the community who needed a liver transplant. Key Club sponsored a wake-a-thon, a bake sale, and a walk-a-thon to raise a total of $2023.

The Key Club also sold Easter candies for their state project to buy televisions for Riley Hospital in Indianapolis. They raised $771. They also had car washes and helped with concessions at the Wawasee gymnastics sectional and regional meets. The sponsor of Key Club was Mrs. Pletcher. The officers were Kim Kidd, president; Mary Riffle, vice-president; Missy Hite, secretary; Laura Nickels, treasurer. The club had a very successful year helping the community a great deal.

An interest in the Bible

The Bible club was once again sponsored by Mr. Fox, but organized by students in the club. Bible club members shared a common interest in the Bible. It also was a time for students to discuss common interests. Jesse Vore, a member of the Bible club, brought in pamphlets on Campus Life for the club to discuss. They also watched a Christian talk show titled Twice Pardoned. The club met on Tuesday and Thursday mornings, and they were also a group C club during homeroom. No certain religion was stressed. The students just shared a common interest in the Bible.

Winning with farming

The FFA was again into its winning ways. Members Kim Crain, Jennifer Wood, Barry Beer, Michael Schafer, and Loretta Schafer placed third at the Rochester Invitational Dairy Judging contest. The crop judging team placed fifth in the area crops contest. Team members Jennifer Wood, David Schmucker, Barry Beer, Chris Kreps, Fred Kreps, and Marion Lilly qualified for the state contest. FFA members Chad Tom and Steve Bartles teamed up with Wawasee Middle School students Troy Wuthrich and Brian Warren to win the junior division of the Huntington Invitational Livestock Judging contest. The club also hosted a district meeting in March where all clubs in the district converged on Wawasee for numerous events. It was a successful year for FFA.

DECA means business

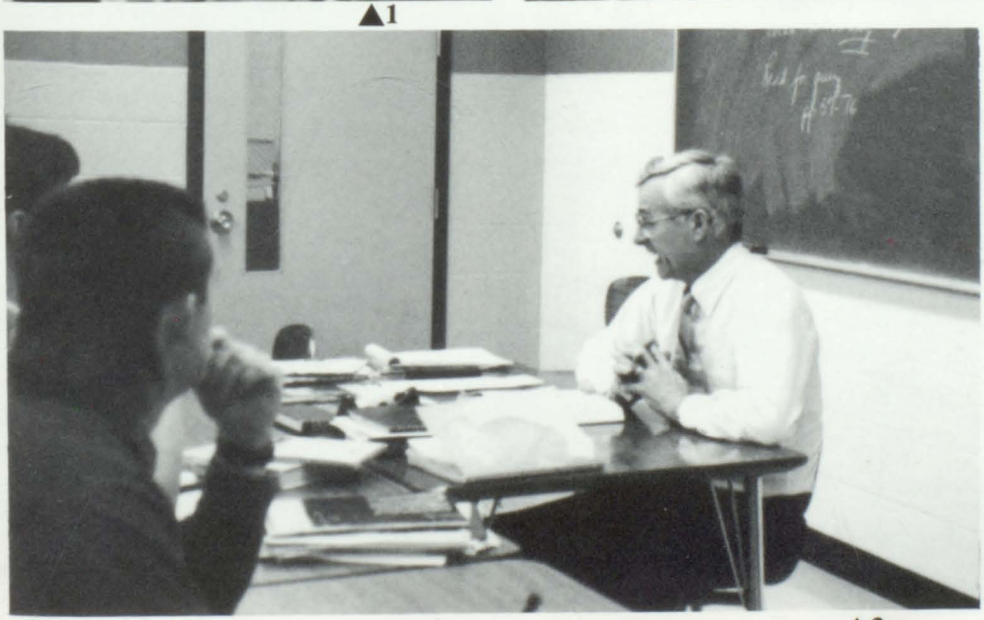

DECA members spent a large part of the year preparing to compete. To begin the process, they attended the District II DECA contest at Scottsdale Mall in South Bend. The students did an excellent job with the following places: Mike Voorheis, first, demo; Cathy Summerlot, first, fast foods; Ramona Carrillo, second, fast foods; Dan Veenstra, third, petroleum; Jamie Orsborne, third, general merchandise; Kelli Gooding, fifth, full service restaurant; Sherrie Jones, sixth, fast foods; Adam Reel, sixth, general marketing. DECA members then traveled to Indianapolis for their state contest and convention. Winners there were Cathy Summerlot, second in restaurant quick service; Mike Voorheis, third over all in sales demonstrations. Creating a Legend

There were thirteen students to make the yearbook a success. In September the staff took a field trip to Saint Francis College. They attended classes for the day to learn how to create a yearbook. Mrs. Harkleroad was the sponsor. Melissa Garrett typed the entire book on the Apple IIe. The other staff members were busy the whole year taking pictures and drawing layouts. Students also had to sell ads in the Milford, Syracuse, and North Webster areas. The ads helped pay for part of the yearbook contract cost. They also had to create some of these ads with artwork on the McIntosh computer. During second semester there were deadlines every few weeks for 16 page sections. The students had to have so many layouts done for each deadline. The staff was busy the entire year.

Speaking out strongly

▲1

The WHS speech team had a successful year. The team had several members that actively competed. Outstanding member Charity Stump was the sectional champion in the category of discussion. She also achieved the distinction level with 270 points in the National Forensic League for speech recognition. The team members competed in the categories of broadcasting, extemporaneous speaking, discussion, duo interpretation, interpretation, prose, impromptu, poetry interpretation, oratorical, original oratory, and Congress. Mrs. Tyree began the year as their sponsor; however, Mr. Leininger took her place second semester during her maternity leave.

Hackers enjoy game Sundays

This was one of the computer club's busiest years. They worked on modems, where they could actually call into bulletin boards and down load information. They had several game Sundays where members could bring in computers or computer games and other members would get a chance to try them out. Members also toured Chore-Time-Brock to see the kind of computer equipment they used. The club had a Christmas party and an end of the year party. Officers were Tad Byrd, president; Brent McCullough, vice-president; Amy McCullough, secretary; and Jim Adams, treasurer.

FEA learns to teach

Future Educators of America had a very eventful year. Activities began with an observation day at area schools. Members were also involved in the elf program which allowed them to be teachers' secret elves. The elf's identity was kept a secret until the Teacher's Tea at the end of the year. Members also put on the Smoking Sam program, which illustrated the dangers of smoking, for the elementary students. Club officers were Heather Perzanowski, president; Erika Lange, vice-president; Heather Hickman, secretary/treasurer. The FEA sponsor was Mr. Iden.

Art club, a sketchy group

▲1

Art club had several activities. They carved pumpkins at Halloween and then displayed them in the courtyard. The club also traveled to Indianapolis to have their portfolios judged on October 20. The club had a Christmas social at Mrs. Bryan's house and exchanged hand made gifts with one another. They took a trip to Chicago on November 16 to visit the Chicago Art Institute and the Sears Tower. The president of the art club was Mike Beezley, and the secretary/treasurer was Jay Goshert.

Spectacular year

Students Against Drunk Driving started the year slowly. First semester they helped car-hop at the McDonald's Cruise-In for Red Ribbon Week. During the second semester they got down to business. They started planning an anti-drinking slogan for prom and graduation. Also, some of the officers planned a lock-in. They had open gym, movies, swimming, pizza, and breakfast in the morning. Fellowship of Christian Athletes was invited as guests. The club officers were Chris Calhoon, president; Sean Arnold, vice-president; Tom Castell, secretary; Heather Mishler, treasurer.

Two SADD club members, Chris Calhoon and Heather Mishler, went to the fifth grade classes at Syracuse and North Webster to talk to students about drugs and alcohol and what they do to the human body. Chris and Heather also told the students why they did not use drugs or alcohol. The year turned out to be a spectacular one for Students Against Drunk Driving.

Jazzing it up

"Jazz band was a lot of hard work, but it was a lot of fun too," said Scott Hardy, one of the newest members. Jazz band practiced every Monday night almost the entire school year. The band was composed of seven trumpets, two alto saxophones, two tenor saxophones, one baritone saxophone, one tuba, five trombones, one bass guitar, two drummers, one pianist, and, of course, Mr. Blackwell. The jazz band played at all of the home basketball games. They got the crowd excited by playing songs like "Taking Care of Business," "Wild Thing," and "Tequila." The jazz band attended contest again in group two and received a first division rating. They played "Skylark," which was a ballad, and a very jazzy selection called "Opus." The band played at the music booster dance and at the North Webster Church of the Brethern for their mother daughter banquet. They also played at the Psi Iota Xi concert.

Student council shows leadership

Student council met regularly during homeroom and before school with students and administration to better WHS. The student council organized homecoming week and the dance. They also worked on the Valentine Sweetheart Dance which was semi-formal. During basketball season, they bought tomahawks for the booster section. A fundraiser for Jason Martindale, a junior hospitalized at Riley Hospital in Indianapolis, was held April 24. During their HIT or study hall, faculty and students were "arrested" by warrants which cost students from $2 to $5. The faculty lounge was a jail for the day. In May they sponsored "So Long, Seniors, Week." Council members also worked with the convocations all year and created the class bulletin board in the commons. The student council president was Matt Johnson; vice-president, Aaron Sincroft; treasurer, Jenny Lotter; secretary, Heather Waldrop.

Speaking for fun

The foreign language club worked hard this year. The FLC met once a month to share their ideas. They played bingo in all the different languages so the students could learn. The FLC also watched cartoons during club meetings. The students said they were fun to watch except sometimes the characters talked too fast. The club made different food items for the different holidays in each country. The club also made Christmas and Valentine cards in their certain language. Members had fun while learning the different languages.

Read all about it

The Smoke Signals staff was led by their editor-in-chief, Stacey Clay. The staff size, under the direction of Mr. Robbins, greatly increased, and they published nine papers. There were five seniors on the staff: Max Barker, Mike Beezley, Stacey Clay, Tricia Gaff and Brian Kern, with junior Amber White serving as their photographer. The paper was entered in a Michiana Journalism contest and individuals Mike Beezley and Ryan Vanhook participated in a journalism contest at IUPUI over spring break where Mike Beezley received a first place in editorial cartooning. The staff was excited about the new publications lab they would have next year with new computers and a darkroom in the new addition.

The history of a Legend

The twenty-fourth volume of the Wawasee Legend was 212 pages long. There were 500 copies printed for a publication cost of $15,152. The Legend sold for $20 with a $2 extra charge for seniors who wanted their names printed on the cover. The seniors also had to pay $7 each for the senior picture pages to be in color. The paper used was Bordeaux 80# gloss which was cut into 8 1/2 x 11 inch pages. The binding was Smyth sewn. The cover of the book was created by senior Sam Huffer, and all division pages were drawn by senior Mike Beezley.

There were six copy deadlines for the yearbook in which a differing number of pages were sent to publisher Herff Jones at their plant in Shawnee Mission, Kansas. The sales representative was Fred Henderson, and the customer advisor in Shawnee Mission was Lisa Wohlford.

So Long, Wawasee

A falling tear runs down my face, because
It's time to say good-by.
It's hard to keep it all inside, but for
You I'm going to try.
As we're walking out these doors, things
Are going to change for you and me.
We'll be letting go of high school years,
Yet hanging on to memories.
We're like new ships out on the ocean,
Because it's time for us to sail.
And always know inside your heart
That we can never fail.
We're all afraid of being forgotten or
Never being known.
But even though we say good-by, we
Won't always be alone.
I not only cry for sadness, but for
Happiness too,
Because we've shown everyone, that we
Have made it through.
I'm not going to say good-by, because
I know we'll meet again.
And wherever I may go, I'll be
Missing you, my friends.

Mary Chapa, Class of 1992
