ReEnergize with spirit

Homecoming was a thrilling showdown between the four classes with the theme "Warrior Primetime '98". Each class was given a different TV network: freshmen-PBS; sophomores-ABC; juniors-NBC; and seniors-FOX. All of the excitement started on Tuesday with seniors taking first place in the mural contest. Wednesday's dress up day was hat day followed by the talent show that evening. Sophomores took home the win in the skit category. Thursday's dress up day started off early with get up and go day. That Thursday evening brought about more excitement when the Senior girls ruled the powderpuff game. Friday began with green and gold spirit day. Unfortunately, Friday night's events were drowned out by the heavy rainfall. It began to rain during the parade and by game time it was a continuous downpour. Jeff Moerchen and Megan King were crowned King and Queen. The football players, however, lost in an exciting game against Warsaw, 7-18. The seniors dominated overall by taking first in mural, float, powderpuff, and penny race. A tie for second place came between the juniors and sophomores. Freshmen were in last place.

Refocusing

On the Englightenment

The academic teams included a math team, science team, English team, fine arts team and a social studies team. They had a great deal to live up to since last year's social science team placed second at state. The theme for the year was "The Age of Enlightenment: 1650-1800." The math team, coached by Mr. Nussbaum, studied number theory, calculus, trigonometry, and the history of math from 1650-1800. The science team, coached by Mrs. Daniel, focused on cell biology along with chemistry and physics. The English team, coached by Mrs. Dyck, focused on drama, poetry and prose. The fine arts team, coached by Mrs. Hursh and Mrs. Dubach, studied visual art and music. The social studies team, coached by Mr. VanDrie, Mr. Aalbretgse and Mr. Karns, looked at economics and the Enlightenment in action. The teams were in competition at least three times during their season. On March 11 they traveled to an invitational in Warsaw. An NLC meet at Concord was also scheduled in the spring with state competition beginning April 20 with sectionals.

ReCruitment of new faces

In the fall six foreign exchange students arrived at Wawasee High School. They were from Germany, Brazil, and Poland. Their names were Draska, Laura, Anja, Nicole, Rafael, and Slawomir. They enjoyed many things about America, and much of that stemmed from our country being so different from what they were used to. The exchange students weren't the only people who benefited from their arrival. It gave the students of Wawasee a chance to learn about a new culture and make new friends. That way, the program let people in the school and community learn about different countries without actually going there.

▲1

Anja Walther came from Berlin, Germany. She stayed with Gary and Pam Pletcher. She liked how open the people were here, but did not enjoy American cuisine. In her free time, she liked to go out with friends and jazz dance.

2 ◀

Nicole Strauch visited from Aachen, Germany. Nicole stayed with Roger and Pam Butt. Her hobbies included swimming and horseback riding. She said that she had no dislikes because everything was so new to her.

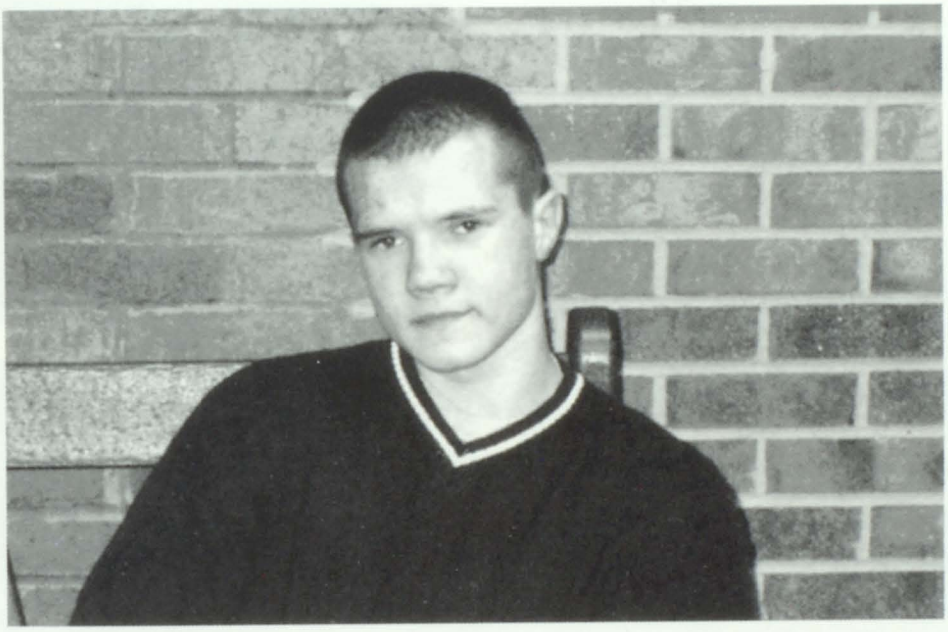

3 ◀

Rafael Candelot came from Goiania, Brazil. He was 17 years old during his visit and he stayed with John and Tammy Kratzer. He enjoyed swimming, playing soccer, and being with friends. His only dislike was that there wasn't as much freedom here.

4

Laura Coutinho came from Goiania, Brazil. Her hobbies were sports and going out with friends. She thought that the winter here was too cold. However, Laura liked the people, how the schools worked, and the food. She said that it was very different from Brazil. She was 16 years old and stayed with Roger and Vicki Karns.

5

Slawomir Sendzielski visited from Warsaw, Poland. He enjoyed basketball, bicycle rides, and skiing. He liked the variety of climates throughout the U.S. That way, if you did not like the winters here, you could go to Florida during that time. He did not like all of the fast food restaurants however. He was 17 years old and his host parents were Boyd and Nan Wear.

6

Draska Dervisevic came from Wolfsburg, Germany. She stayed with Sam and Tami Coquillard and she was 17 years old. Her hobbies were swimming, dancing, and listening to music. She thought that the people here were very nice, and she also liked the fact that teenagers here could drive when they were 16. However, she thought that the school day was too long.

ReMaking Of a mystery

On November 20th and 21st the drama department presented its fall play The Mousetrap. It was a recreation of the novel by Agatha Christie. The stagecraft class made the cleverly designed set. The main focus was inside Monkswell Manor where a young couple named Mollie and Giles Ralston (Ashley Whitesel and Matt Pedersen) ran the inn. The premise of the play was that there had been a murder in London and any one of the five guests staying with them or even Mollie and Giles were suspects. A man called Sgt. Trotter (Tomir Denton) then visited them. He was in charge of the investigation of the crime. It all came to an end when Sgt. Trotter finally announced that he was not a police officer; he was indeed the murderer. The directors were Miss Wooldridge, Mrs. Moss, Mrs. Thornburg, and the assistant director was Dana Campbell, a WHS junior. During the intermission the audience was invited to guess who they thought the killer was while eating refreshments sold by the drama club. At the end during the curtain calls, the person with the most votes carried a star. On Friday night the popular vote went to T.J. Gibson portraying the flamboyant Christopher Wren, and on Saturday Katie Kubacki, playing Miss Casewell, received the honor. When questioned Tomir said that he "had fun being the murderer." All in all it was a delightful show for everyone.

ReCompeting With aggression

The intramurals had a very good year. They had twenty teams come out counting the two faculty teams. In the league play team Tim Johnson finished with a 5-1 record to earn the top seed going into the tournament. Teams Tim Johnson's and the Trojan's only loss in the league play was to the faculty team. Even though the faculty team went undefeated, they did not play in the tournament. For the championship game, team T.S. avenged an earlier two-point loss to Tim Johnson by beating them in the final game by seven. Players, felt that intramurals was a fun time and for the most part very competitive. We had two champs this year. League champs were Tim Johnson, and tournament champs were T.S.

Reappearing Within a century

The spring musical brought with it a little magic as the drama club presented "Brigadoon." The magical Scottish village that only appeared every 100 years was stumbled upon by two New York tourists. Jeff, played by David Mahan, and Tommy, played by Matt Pederson, were the two lucky enough to witness the mysterious village of Brigadoon. As the two visited, Tommy fell in love with Fiona, played by Amanda Jeffrey. As the New Yorkers left, the village disappeared again for another 100 years. The love of Fiona and Tommy did not disappear, however, and this love was able to bring back the magical place. Their love was strong enough and Fiona temporarily reappeared to take Tommy back to Brigadoon with her. The cast was large and much hard work went into the production whose end result was success.

With a great year

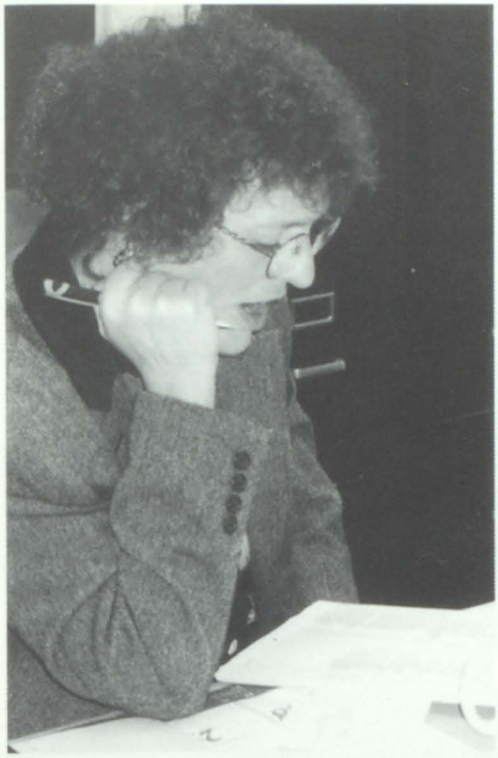

The four administrators had another busy year helping Wawasee to become a better school. Mr. Frank was in his third year as principal. Gaining respect from the students by always helping them out and just caring made it a great year for both him and the students. Mr. Matz, as assistant principal, continued to see improvement in students, staff, and curriculum. Mr. Mitz was dean of students, always helping out and making sure students were safe at all times. Athletic director, Mrs. Hurley, took a great deal of time encouraging and congratulating all of the athletes in their accomplishments. She also received the service award from Indiana Coaches of Girls Sports Association (ICGSA), which was one of the highest awards in the state.

The art department offered students a variety of classes, including 3-D design, basic art, ceramics, and more. Students were also able to take a photography class. In this class the students learned the art of taking pictures, and they also learned how to develop their own film. Another unique class that was offered was ceramics. In this class, students made a variety of projects out of clay. Mr. Johnson and Mrs. Bryan headed the art department. Students worked on their various art projects throughout the year, and then in spring many exhibits were displayed in the annual art show. Case Hensler won the best of show award. Students in art classes were asked to submit their designs for the Legend yearbook cover. This year, Brad Hursh's design was chosen for the cover.

ReMovating

With business skills

It was another great year for business. Mr. Schutz taught typing again where the students learned the basic skills for typing. Mrs. Miller kept busy teaching accounting and keyboarding. Mr. Murphy taught introduction to marketing and advanced business. He also continued to co-ordinate the cooperative education program (I.C.E.) and the DECA club. The I.C.E. was for students who wanted to work during school, and receive credit and a grade for it. It also gave them a wider choice of work opportunities. Mrs. Huber's administrative support services class were working hard. Students learned on the job, earned pay, and received credit.

ReVocalizing

Once again choir proved to be an important part of Wawasee High School. Concert choir was added to the list of already existing choirs as well as a new teacher, Mrs. Meadows. Choir allowed students to have fun while entertaining the community giving many students a chance to perform in numerous concerts and shows. The choirs, along with the orchestra and show choirs, did a great job in the Christmas festival performed for the community. They then performed the program for the student body to enjoy during the week before Christmas break. In March the choirs participated in the Corporation Music Festival. The choirs along with the middle school choirs performed theme songs from movies and theatre. The choirs also performed in choir competitions which gave the individual students a chance to show their musical talents and compete against other area schools.

ReSpeaking
With accents

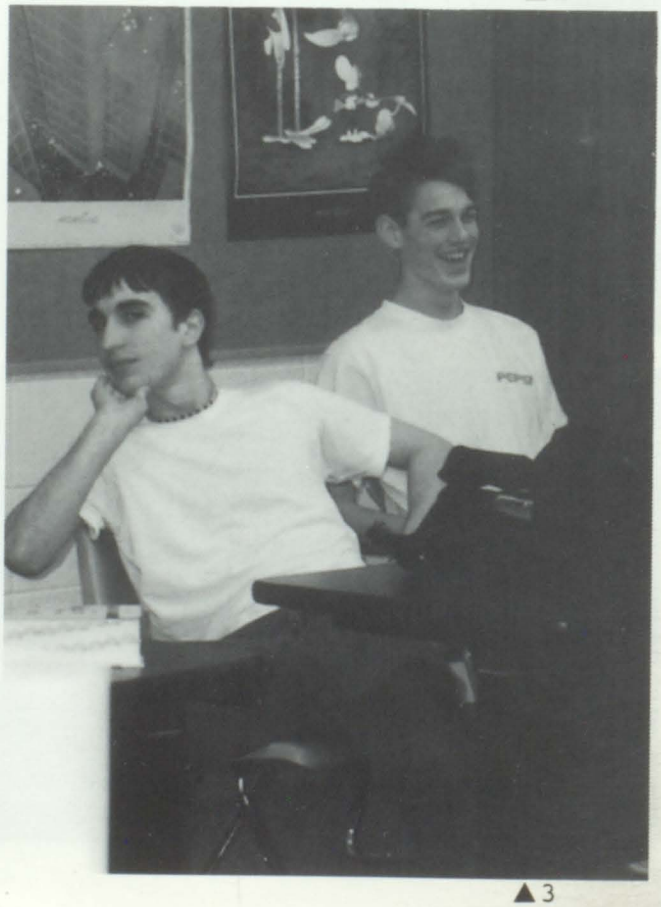

This year was a great one for the foreign language classes. A new face was seen as Miss Smoker took over some Spanish classes. The use of stories to learn vocabulary was continued throughout the year in many of the classes. Some German students had an exciting summer of '98 as they had the opportunity to travel to Germany. In addition, Mrs. Hursh prepared French students for a much awaited trip to France during spring break. Students in Spanish were given the opportunity for a trip to Spain during the summer of '99. All of these exciting trips were made possible by the participation of the classes in the yearly fundraiser. This fundraiser brought in money for the student's trips and computer supplies.

ReCounseling
For the new year

It was a big year for the guidance counselors and special needs teachers. Ms. Angle had the students whose last name started with A-G; Mrs. Flueckiger had H-O; and Mr. Hunsberger had P-Z. This split the classes up pretty evenly. One responsibility of Miss Flueckiger's was to inform the seniors of scholarships they could earn.

In special needs there was a new teacher, Mr. McLaughlin. He stated he really enjoyed his job. The work was different every day and kept him interested. He really enjoyed the ladies he worked with since he was the only male in this department. He commented they really helped him make the transition from college to his job here at WHS.

Redomesticate

For your future

The home ec department offered several classes this year to high school students. Many of them gave students knowledge and advice on what it takes to be an adult. The classes consisted of child development which enabled the students to work with empathy bellies, child observation, and fake babies which were known as the ready-or-not TOT. Interior design was also a class offered focusing mainly on visiting local homes. Another home ec option was family relations, a class that discussed topics concerning youth today such as dating, sexual relationships, family conflicts, death and drugs. Among the cooking aspect was Foods I and Foods II. Foods I worked with basic food labs. Foods II made meals, foreign foods, and helped to make the sectional lunches. With the help of all these classes, students could get a better grasp on what it would be like in the real world.

The industrial technology classes were very involved with a variety of projects. Mr. Coblentz and Mr. Vitaniemi taught many different classes. For example, energy systems, introduction to technology, Material and Process I, Material and Process II, and building construction were offered. Also, design CAD, design drafting, and design constructing, along with other related fields were available to the students. All classes certainly kept themselves busy. They built sheds and a super mileage vehicle. Computers were used often in classes to design various types of projects.

The language arts department started the year off right with new ideas and a new face. This new face was that of teacher Mrs. Dyck. The new ideas had to do with goals that were set by the teachers last year. The first had to do with instituting a free reading period where students could bring in a book and enjoy quiet reading time. The other goal was to reinstitute the ACP English class for seniors. As a result of the department's hard work, both goals were achieved. The teachers often offered a free reading day throughout the year. The ACP English class experienced new things with its first time teacher, Mrs. Harkleroad. A field trip was taken to the IUSB library in order to do research for essays. The teachers and students had a great year working together with these new aspects of language arts.

The LRC had a new addition to its staff this year. With Mrs. Olszewski moving to the attendance office, the LRC required the services of Mrs. Keifer as the librarian's aide. Mr. Guinther remained the head librarian. Among other changes to the library this year was the addition of a new Hewlett Packard Laser Jet printer. This made it a lot easier for students to retrieve information from the library's computer. Internet access was made available at every terminal in the library. There were also many changes in the television production studio. There was a new addition to the production staff. Mrs. Christoffel was replaced by Mrs. White. The morning announcements were improved this year, with the addition of the morning weather report. The audiovisual studio continued to make creative and innovative news broadcasts. This was an excellent way for students who planned on having a career in the news field to get first hand experience in a studio.

The math department had some new things happen this year. Mr. Rietveld was the new teacher in the math department. He was also the new football coach for Wawasee. In the math department he taught geometry and pre-algebra. Also this year the entire math department adopted new books for everyone. When Mr. Hawkins left at the beginning of the year to take another job, Mrs. Szynal took his place. Being just part time last year, this year she was full time. She taught algebra and geometry enriched.

Reporting About Wawasee

The newspaper had a great year as it kept students informed on important information dealing with activities and students at the school. Smoke Signals was distributed monthly to the W.H.S. students and faculty. This class, taught by Mr. Robbins, met daily to work on stories and meet deadlines. The editor-in-chief was Jaxon Swain, while Sandy Drake served as assistant editor, and Missy Tusing served as head photographer for the staff.

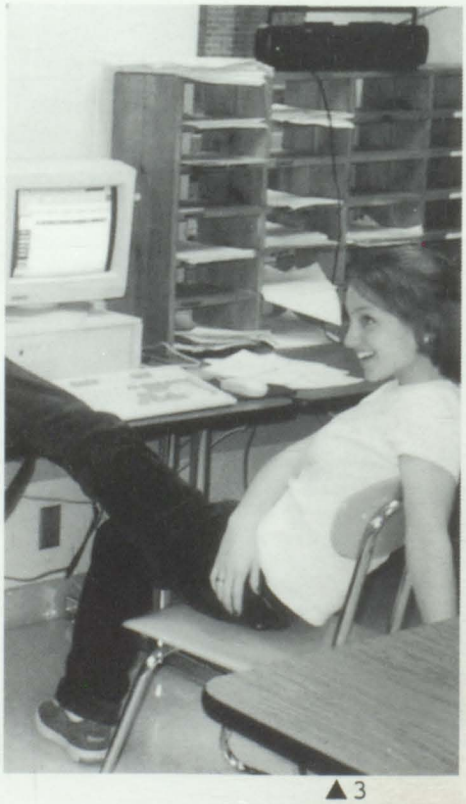

The writers included many unique aspects of student life, including sports, clubs, weekend life, and more. Each issue also included reviews of movies, music, and books. The staff also took their annual field trip to Notre Dame in the fall. In the spring the annual magazine was put out by the Smoke Signals staff. This included stories dealing with the upcoming summer, students, and the past school year.

Orchestra's year consisted of concerts, contests, and new music selections. The orchestra was a combination of the full orchestra and the strings groups. This year the orchestra performed in the annual Christmas concert, the corporation music festival and the ISSMA organizational contest at West Noble. The strings also performed new pieces this year that consisted of many different styles and time periods. These selections included Bach's "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring," Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus," Beethoven's First Symphony, and the Beatles "Eleanor Rigby."

Re-running With PE

Physical Education was an important part of many high school students' lives. All the freshmen looked forward to the required semester of basic physical education and the soon required second semester anytime before they graduated. Freshmen had a wide range of choices with lifetime activities, team sports, or regular PE. The other elective classes provided by the department included team sports, lifetime activities, weight lifting, lifeguarding, and PE plus classes. The physical education department also provided an athletic training course. This class provided students with the basic knowledge and experience to become athletic trainers. The students actually had the opportunity to be on the sidelines of many sporting events to aid with injuries. Once again the freshmen got to test their skills in the annual Wawasee triathlon. Many students also had the opportunity to learn life saving techniques in community CPR.

The science department continued its reputation of excellence. They were regularly making improvements in the science curriculum. The course offerings maintained high standards of achievement in preparing students for an adult life beyond Wawasee High School. The science department spent the year deciding on new textbooks to adopt for the upcoming school year. The pig lab was still a big event for the human physiology students. In this lab students had the opportunity to perform brain surgery and heart surgery. The Bio II classes were busy doing labs on genetics and evolution. All in all, the science department still stood out with high distinction.

Rehearsing

With new moves

The show choirs were under the direction of a new choir instructor, Mrs. Meadows. Both the Varsity Singers and Dream Company learned a lot about vocal technique and sight reading as well as rhythm. The Varsity Singers remained very busy. They had a fund raiser selling oranges and a car wash to raise money for new outfits. They performed both at the homecoming talent show singing "Carnival" and at the Christmas concert singing "Fruit Cake," "Holly Jolly Christmas," and "Joy to the World." On March 12th they performed at the Corporation Music Festival. The Dream Company also performed in the talent show, the Christmas concert, and also in Warsaw for a special Christmas performance. They also sang the "Star Spangled Banner" at the girls' sectional basketball game. The Dream Company also performed in a contest in April and in the Spring Pops Show. The show choirs had a good year and many excellent performances.

Reliving In the past

The social sciences gave students the opportunity to learn not only about history, but life in the present. Seniors in government and economics classes participated in the annual mock election. The two parties were the Democrats and the Republicans represented by the mascots of a monkey and a bat respectively. T.J. Gibson and Jane Wamsley led the Democrat party. John Glon and Glenn Strycker led the Republican Party. The Republicans won the election. The juniors in Mr. Van Drie's A.P. history class reenacted the John Brown trial. Juniors in Mr. Karns' and Mr. Van Drie's U.S. history classes worked with the Discover program for guidance to some career and educational opportunities. Sophomores in Mr. Aalbregtse's world civilization class studied many different cultures and events from the past. There was a new addition to the social sciences staff at semester. RePreparing

For a busy year

This was a great year for the cooks and custodians of Wawasee. The cooks started out by trying new varieties along with new foods. They would look back at what the students ate best to determine what they actually preferred. The new year brought around two new faces into the kitchen: Lisa Dewitt, who worked part-time, and Peggy Thomas who was willing to work when they needed some extra help. In the custodial department the custodians kept very busy. They were responsible for all of the set-ups and tear-downs for the events at Wawasee. They all stayed on task and kept everything looking great.

Refocusing
Toward new skills

The vocational department, once again directed by Mrs. Huber, had wonderful year. Autos I was offered for the beginning three periods of the day, and Autos II was the concluding three periods of the day. Mr. Craig again taught autos. The auto mechanics advanced class visited auto service centers, NAPA, and Precision Automotive for five afternoons to do job shadowing. They also attended Track Day at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway and attended seminars at Lincoln Technical Institute in Indianapolis. Mr. Waltz's building trades classes constructed a new home in the Fox Run addition. The house was approximately 4200 square feet. Building trades, like autos, had the same schedule. Building Trades I met the first three periods, and Building Trades II met the last three periods. Mr. Warren continued to teach the agriculture classes and had another successful year. The I and II printing classes were held at West Noble High School.

Being on the yearbook staff was very challenging. The staff took responsibility in contacting and visiting businesses in the area for the ad section of the yearbook. A field trip was taken to take pictures for the ads which helped make the yearbook less expensive for the students. Putting the Legend together this year was tough, but the staff of fourteen members got the job done. The yearbook staff conceived the Legend's cover, and the designer, Brad Hursh, did a fantastic job of drawing it. The theme was selected first semester and it was a hard decision, but the staff came together and the final decision was "All Things Reconsidered." Second semester the staff was responsible for six deadlines which were hectic for everyone. The publisher of the yearbook was Herff Jones. The yearbook staff all pulled together to create the Legend and give WHS students lasting memories.

ReStoring

With the community

There was a new addition to the clubs. It actually started in the second semester of 1998. WHS students that were concerned for their community started AVS or Amy Vanlaningham Society. At first it had no name, but it was eventually named in memory of a former Wawasee student, Amy Vanlaningham, who was randomly murdered in Haiti during a mission's trip. AVS was started to encourage both students and the community to accept diverse cultures. AVS led Wawasee in many activities including Wawasee Cares week; a petition published in local papers to show WHS students were against racist actions; Christmas baskets for the less fortunate; Habitat for Humanity; a student diversity dialogue during the summer; and the World Lunch. This group had no president or vice president; everyone contributed his own opinions and ideas. The sponsors were Mr. VanDrie and Mrs. Yargosz.

The computer club was restarted after a year off thanks to the efforts of all the students interested in computers and Mr. Steinbarger the school's new computer technician. The computer club was made up of ten members. They usually met on Wednesdays after school. The computer club members generally played games on the computer during their meetings. They also took several field trips to Ft. Wayne for computer shows. On some Saturdays they held pizza parties. ReMarketing With DECA

The DECA club had a very successful year. They took a fieldtrip to Warsaw for a DECA meeting along with other surrounding schools. They also went to the regional competition at South Bend. Many of the students advanced to state and even placed in the top three at the state level.

Travis Cox placed third in the Marketing Management event. Paul Gilliam and Sam Korenstra placed second in the Financial Services Management team event. All three of them qualified for the National DECA competition in Orlando, Florida, on April 23-27.

The drama club had an exciting year. It all began with the fall play, THE MOUSETRAP. Even though it was a small cast of eight members, many students were involved as stagecraft workers or crew members. In January the drama club went to see FAME, the musical, in Chicago. First they made a lunch stop at Ed Debevic's. Next was the spring musical BRIGADOON. Beginning with an authentic bagpiper, BRIGADOON was enchanting from start to finish. The costumes were colorful, the dancing was great, the singing was quality and the set was realistic. There were over sixty students who participated in the cast and crew. Next the drama club hosted the second annual Academy Awards at Oakwood Inn on April 27th. Students were nominated for awards in a variety of categories. The drama club ended their year with a student directed play, FABLES. The entire show was student run.

Refinancing With FBLA

FBLA was designed to provide business experience and knowledge through conferences, competitions and relationships with local businesses. FBLA consisted of 21 members. They attended the fall leadership conference in Cincinnati, Ohio. The club also had local business leaders come to the school to speak. FBLA members also did a great job at state competition where Brian Milligan placed first, which qualified him to compete at the national level. ReEducating

With future teachers

With an eye on the future and a challenging career in education, FEA members involved themselves in activities which would help them become the teachers of tomorrow. In the fall FEAers participated in an Observation Day in elementary and middle school classrooms where they assisted teachers and assumed the roles of a teacher. FEAers enjoyed the first-hand experience of working with children. In February the FEA members were peer teachers in the American Lung Association's Smoking Education Program, teaching fifth graders across the corporation about the effects of smoking on the respiratory system. This marked the 26th year that FEA had participated in the program, more than any South Bend area school. FFA was involved in many activities. Fourteen members attended the national convention where everyone went to programs and the dairy team competed in the national contest. The Wawasee jazz band provided outstanding music and spirit to every basketball game this season. The jazz band acted as an inspirational motivator for not only the players, but the spectators as well. They livened up the basketball games with the power of good music. The jazz band was directed by Mr. Clark. The band put in many long hours and the benefits showed. Jazz band allowed students to study music and display their individual as well as team playing skills. This was an excellent opportunity for students to learn about music first hand.

Reinducting With honor

This year was a successful one for the National Honor Society. Their major focuses dealt with promoting service, leadership, scholarship, and character. Induction into National Honor Society required students to obtain a 9.5 grade point average and recommendations from high school teachers. After being inducted, members had to complete 5 hours of community service each year. This could be done in a number of ways, including opportunities to work around the school. Members helped count the money raised from the Penny Pitch. The sponsor of NHS was Mrs. Cheryl Martin. Ryan Yoder was voted president while Olga Panchenko served as vice-president, and Amii Bischof as secretary.

ReBalancing

For the new season

The gymnastics team had an excellent year. They came out with a record of 10 - 3. For many of their meets they were missing gymnasts because of the flu and injuries. At the Lakeland Invitational they won their title back from Warsaw with Angie Beer winning the all-around. At sectionals they finished a disappointing second. However, Angie Beer was the floor exercise champion, and Katie Brown was the vault champion. The MVP award went to Angie Beer; the drive, desire, and determination, Jessica Evilsizor; most improved, Lisa Ummel; coaches' award, Katie Brown, and the JV award, Carrie Becker.

Rehitting
With baseball

The Wawasee baseball team had a strong core of players and leadership with seven seniors. The Warriors also had nine returning letter men to add to the experience. For the first time the varsity players had the opportunity to go to southern Indiana over spring break to play ball. The trip allowed the Warriors to enjoy the weather, play against some good competition and get some practice in. The varsity season was marked with some close losses to NLC teams. The freshmen team season was highlighted with a win over Warsaw. All three teams had a great season and the players had a good time. Matt Coy stated, "We had a lot of fun this year and played well as a team."

As of early May, the varsity softball team was having a pretty good season with a record of 5 wins and 9 losses. The regular season came to an end with sectional week June 1-5. Mr. O'Dell and his assistant, a former member of the Wawasee softball team Jennifer Morgan, coached the varsity team. The J.V. team also started their season off exceptionally well. The J.V. team was coached by Floyd Hill who was assisted by Sam Coquillard.

ReServing

With aces

The girls' tennis team was led by the four returning letter winners from last season who were Shanda Bucher, Stephanie Shivers, Laura Lundin, and Mandy Perzanowski. The coaching staff was Phil Mishler, head coach; Cindy Peterson, assistant coach; and Roger Brady, assistant coach. The girls' tennis team was the first team to play on the new tennis courts that were finished last fall. One of the main goals for the team was to repeat the sectional title that they won the year before for the first time in school history. The tennis team started the season with an important NLC win against Concord, and they also posted another win against Fairfield.

ReStrengthen
With a great season

The boys' track team had a great turn out compared to years before with 40 members and a strong core of 14 returning letter winners. The team was led by the distance group and strong field events. The team started off the season right with a record of 3-0. Then after loosing to Warsaw and Plymouth and beating Northridge, they won three straight, earning a record of 7-2 by the first of May. The coaching staff was headed by Kerry Murphy and assisted by John Reutebuch, Ron Wichern, and Bert McLaughlin. The season was filled with many firsts. The boys won the first annual Warrior Relays, and it was also the first year for the 300 intermediate hurdles race. Coach Kerry Murphy stated, "We showed great improvement this season and we hope to build on it next year." Senior Rustin Mikel added, "Being part of the track team has been great for the past four years and I will miss it." The captains of the team were Chris Lambert, Rustin Mikel, and Jeff Moerchen.

Regenerating

With new coach

The Lady Warrior tracksters, under the guidance of new head coach Kevin Gilbert, began practicing just as spring rolled around. The team was led by seniors Michelle Lamb, Alena List, and Megan Hoffman. With the limited number of seniors, the underclassmen took charge and stepped up to the competition. Personal bests were recorded all season, several of them coming in the East Noble Relays. The meet against Bremen brought with it 12 first places as the girls were victorious with a score of 84-37. The season was full of improvement and there was much potential seen in the up and coming underclassmen. "Although we were young, our season was an uplifting one," commented Michelle Lamb.

ReStroking

With good form

The boys' golf team had an exceptional year. After going to state last year as a team, they wanted to do the same this year only better. The Warriors were led by two seniors Scott White and Chad Wortinger. They also had strong underclass members that backed them up. They had a remarkable record of 6-0 as of early May. The first big meet for the golfers was their invitational. They captured first out of a field of twenty-one teams. Low scorers for the Warriors were Chad Wortinger, Lucas White, and Ryan Skaggs who shot a 77 which was six over par. But the remainder of the squad Scott White, Lucas White, Ryan Skaggs, and Kyle Lundy also helped the Warriors to victory.

ReSpirited

For sports

The cheer teams continued to support the football and both girls' and boys' basketball teams. They decorated the school and fields with signs and other types of decorative props. Some of the high points this season for the cheer teams were having the opportunity to cheer at the Hoosier Dome in September and participating in July at the Elkhart County Fair competition. At this competition the JV squad brought home a third place trophy. The combined JV and varsity squads competed at the Indiana State Coed Championship where they got a very enthusiastic reaction from the crowd and placed third. The award winners were MVP, Katie Jones; JV leadership, Kayla Haab; varsity spirit, Tyson Niles; varsity leadership, Colleen Hickey; JV spirit, Kristi Rosbrugh; freshman spirit, Jodi Richcreek.

ReMembering
Over the years

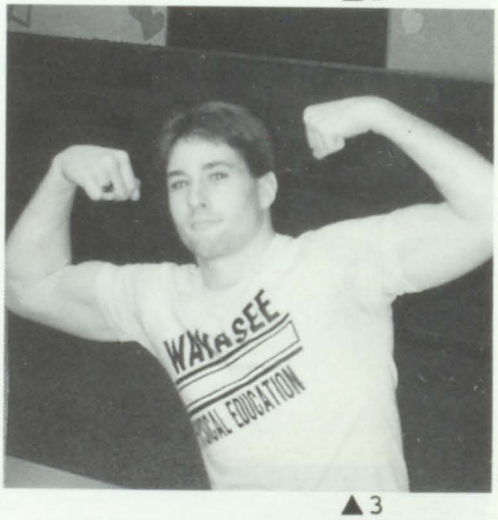

The class of '99 truly defined "saving the best for last." Homecoming was an easy victory with the seniors taking first place overall. They took first in the mural, powderpuff, float and penny race. In November the Republicans ran away with a victory in the National Convention. President John Glon and vice-president Glenn Strycker pulled away with a win in the mock election. In December seniors collected $777.94 in the penny pitch, putting them in second place. The next big events for the seniors were spring break in April, and prom and graduation in May.

Redancing

Through the night

The prom was a huge success. The theme, which was voted on by the senior class, was "Remember Me This Way." Members of the prom committee spent several hours making sure the prom was a special evening. Saturday morning, May 15, volunteers went to Greencroft in Goshen to decorate for later on that evening. There was a great turnout in attendance at the dance. Members of the faculty were also there to make sure things ran smoothly and to help serve cake and punch to the prom guests. Parents also helped out by providing valet parking. Prom King and Queen were Jeff Moerchen and Traci Speicher. The Prom started at 9:00 PM and lasted until 12:00 midnight. After Prom was held at the high school and began at 1:30 in the morning. It continued until 5:00 AM. Thanks to all the parents' hard work, After Prom was also a success. There were volleyball, basketball, and a special appearance by the band "Deadspace," which included Andrew Thornburg, John Glon, and Ross Cook. A video, consisting of baby pictures of all the seniors was also shown. Then it was time for the main attraction, the hypnotist. Corey Hardin, Luke Baker, Kevin Carr, Wendy Cavender, Holly Silva, and Vanessa Shafer were all participants in the hypnotism. There was plenty of food provided by Pizza Hut and Burger King, and plenty other snack foods. Prom weekend ended with the class trip to Cedar Point. Two chartered buses left at 6:30 Sunday morning and returned around 9:30 Sunday night. Prom was definitely a weekend to remember.

Reaching For the stars

A new tradition of a Friday night commencement was a successful one. As 224 seniors marched in to "Pomp and Circumstance," the excitement of a new beginning was in the thoughts of many of the graduates. Superintendent Mark Stock gave the welcome to the students, the families, and friends. Senior class president Skyler Speakman reflected on the joyous event. After Justin Bell gave the invocation, salutatorian Alena List spoke to her classmates about the successes and the heroes in their futures. Valedictorian Glenn Strycker then reflected on all the class of '99 had learned over their 13 years in school. Principal Alan Frank distributed 219 diplomas to the graduating seniors and 5 certificates of attendance to the foreign exchange students while vice-principal Dave Matz read the names. Next the seniors turned their tassels as a symbol of their graduation. The traditional candle lighting ceremony and the benediction by Sara Frantz followed. The new graduates marched out of the gym to the front of the school and threw their caps in celebration of their achievement.

Replenishing For the future

The juniors had a lot more participation this year in the homecoming activities than the other years before. They finished a close second in the penny race competition. Colleen Hickey and Aaron Allen were the junior class representatives for homecoming court. In the fall, cheese, sausage, candy, and gifts were sold to help fund the prom and graduation for their senior year. Junior members of the SRC were as pictured below row 1: Angie Beer, Colleen Hickey, secretary; and Katie Brown; row 2: Katie Jones, treasurer; Jenni Gunden, Laura Lundin, vice president; Alisha Henderson, Beth Buhrt; row 3: Scott Bryan, Toby Witmer, R.J. Wilson, Sam Korenstra, and Aaron Allen. Not pictured was Paul Gilliam who was the junior class president.

Reevaluating For the year

The class of 2001 made their sophomore year a great one. They did fine during the week of homecoming, showing school spirit and participation, receiving fourth for their mural and first place for their skit. Sophomores placed fourth in the float judging and second in the powder puff games. The sophomore class voted Lindsay Bender and Will Glaser as their representatives for the homecoming court. The class had a slow start for the penny pitch and ended in fourth place. In the spring the sophomores sponsored their annual chicken barbecue to help them raise money for their senior year. Student council members below consisted of row 1: Justin Magid, vice-president; Tiffany Renier, Kayla Brumbaugh, secretary; Amanda Jeffrey, president; row 2: Cassi Wells, Bria Pletcher, Lindsay Bender, treasurer; Dana Clousing, Jessica Walker, Kevin Newcomer.

ReCropping
With a new Legend

The yearbook staff consisted of a total of 14 students. There were six deadlines that needed to be completed by the end of the year for 206 pages. The paper was Bordeaux 80# gloss and was cut 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 11 inches. The yearbooks were printed by Herff Jones Publishers in Shawnee Mission, Kansas. The cover was drawn by senior Brad Hursh. Each of the yearbooks cost students $28 and an extra $2 was paid by seniors if they wanted their names printed on the covers. The contract price with Herff Jones was $18,635.62 for 500 copies. The school's representative was Mrs. Frances Peel from Herff Jones. There were plenty of tasks that had to be completed by the end of the year. There were layouts that needed to be drawn, copy that had to be finished, and pictures that needed to be taken. Thanks to the hard work, effort, and time put in by the yearbook staff, the book was delivered in time for August registration.

I've sat and watched the faces of my friends.
I've recalled all the pain they'd fallen in.
I remember every time I was there,
Every minute they knew that someone cared.
I've watched them laugh; I've watched them cry,
And now I realize I'll have to say goodbye.

I've sat and watched the faces of those unknown.
I've recalled the days apart we've grown.
And even though I never knew their names,
Laughed at their jokes, or shared in their shame,
I sit and cry a silent tear, and know in my heart
This is our very last year.

I've sat and watched the young in their newfound intakes
I've recalled all the times I'd made the same ignorant mistakes.
I remember shaking my head in utter confusion,
And hoping they wouldn't receive my same retribution.
And lastly I remember that you reap what you sow,
And hope they are ready to take it blow by blow.

After smiling at all the years, all the heartbreak, all the tears
And looking at each smiling face, it erases all my petty disgrace.
My heart leaps with joy at each thought I consume,
At how little I've lived and how little I've loomed.
The experience here will never be withered,
I know in the future, all the things will be reconsidered.
