BEING UNIQUE

There were many students at WHS that were not just another brick in the wall. Many of them did not want to do what everyone else was doing. They had strange and unusual talents and hobbies. Some of these people were very good at their extracurricular activities. Many of them had won local and national awards for their achievements. Some of the people who fit this category were Aaron Yoder for motocross racing, Quentin Vester for BMX racing, and Jesse Swain for boat racing. Even though some other students hadn't been nationally recognized, they were very good at what they did. Some of these people were Cory Clark for his photography, Matt and AJ Klaassen for inline skating, and Curtis Smeltzer for his wonderful artwork. The WHS bowling team qualified for state competition in 2000 and were on track to qualify again in 2001. Jason Yotter rode bulls in rodeo competitions. Many of these kids were having the best time doing the strange and unusual things that they enjoyed.

HOMECOMING

SHOWING SPIRIT

"Warriors Pump up the Volume" was the theme that set the tone for Homecoming week. The seniors had oldies music; juniors, country; sophomores, pop; and the freshmen, rock. The SRC added activities in hopes of increasing student involvement. The spirit stick was one addition to the week. The seniors held the spirit stick the majority of the week, winning first in the powderpuff game, mural, skit, and the penny pitch. Juniors finished second after taking control of the float competition. Students all over the school participated in activities such as: big hat day, tattoo day, and green and gold spirit day. The annual talent show was a huge success with more underclassman acts than previous years. The student body voted Brian Adkins Homecoming king and Bria Pletcher Homecoming queen. The game Friday was against the Goshen Redskins with the Warriors falling to defeat.

EXPLORING PLACES

The foreign exchange students who made their homes in the Wawasee Community School system came from many different countries from as far away as Germany, Brazil, Bosnia, and the Ukraine. Many of them enjoyed all of the school activities that we participated in every day. Most of the foreign exchange students came to the United States to learn English better, but in return we learned that even though people are from different countries, we are still very much alike. There were eight foreign exchange students, and all of them stayed at different times. Two of them left before second semester started. Fiona Mc Ewan came second semester in 2000 and stayed until 2001 while Pablo Henrique was here just first semester. The rest of the foreign exchange students stayed the whole school year.

Tom Shulz makes a pot in ceramics class.

TAKING IT WITH US

The fall play was a production of "You Can't Take it with You." The performances were on November 16, 17, and 18. The nineteen cast members, backstage crew, and makeup artists were directed by Mrs. Moss and produced by Ms. Wooldridge. Everyone involved contributed and got along well. Even though things got tough at times, everyone had fun and came away with a smile and a good experience. The theme of the play was to follow your dreams and not to search for happiness in material things because you can't take them with you. Not only was the show hilarious, but it was inspiring. The entire cast did an excellent job of teaching a life lesson while making the audience laugh. All of the talent on the stage coupled with the enormous amount of hard work put into the show resulted in it being a terrific success.

ADMINISTERING STUDENTS

This was another great year for the Wawasee High School administrators. They worked hard to keep the environment safe for the students and staff and to meet the high Wawasee standards. The administrative staff consisted of Mr. Alan Frank, principal; Mr. Dave Matz, assistant principal; Mr. Gene Mitz, dean of students; and Ms. Mary Hurley, athletic director. To improve the safety of the school, the administration added security cameras through out the building. The cameras were to help monitor activities going on to maintain a safe learning environment. Mr. Frank met with students periodically to discuss issues and find out their points of view. Mr. Matz continued to improve the students, staff, and curriculum. Mr. Mitz helped students out to make sure they were safe and staying on task. This was the second year for Mr. Mitz to have the help of Mr. Chris Rager, the Wawasee High School resource officer. He did a great job of keeping Wawasee safe for students and staff. Ms. Mary Hurley had an excellent year leading the Wawasee High School athletic teams. She scheduled and organized athletic events and got referees for them. She also ran sectional and regional tournaments.

ART

PAINTING PICTURES

Mrs. Bryan and Mr. Eby were the educators for the art department. The art department offered many different classes to students. These included introduction to 2D, intro. to 3D, advanced 2D, drawing, painting, photography, ceramics, and Mr. Eby's new class, graphic arts. Graphic arts was a class that included merging photos together to create one picture out of two originals. The course primarily focused on the program Photoshop that is a program that most of the major design companies use. The class also worked with the community to design T-shirts for the Flotilla. All art students worked to get various pieces of artwork done so they could participate in the annual school art show in the spring.

BAND

MARCHING PRIDE

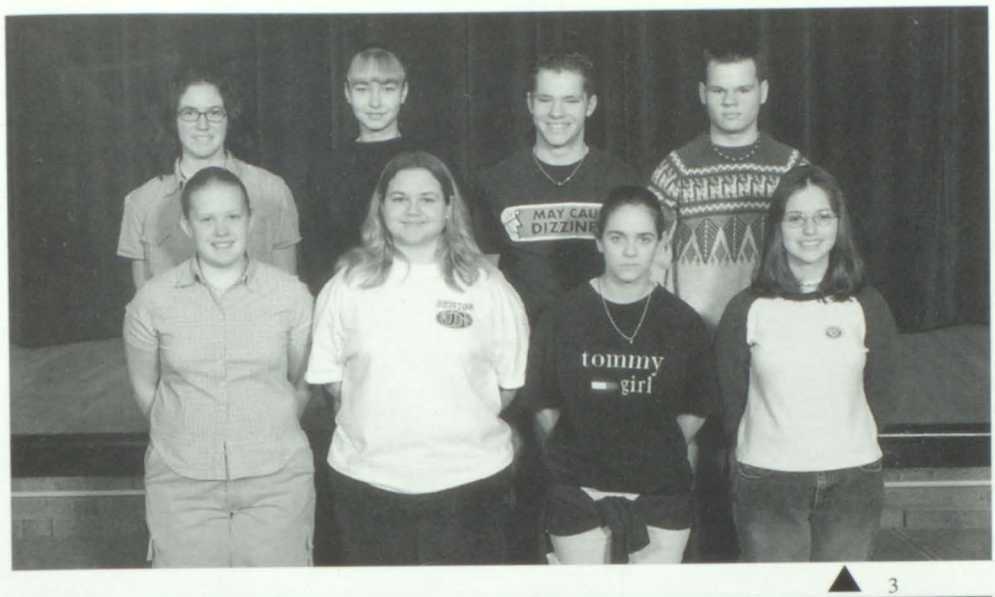

The band was one of the busiest activities in the school. They dedicated themselves to the program to make it a success. In the summer they had band camp for two weeks from 8am-5pm. When school started, band members arrived at school at 6am and practiced up until 2nd period. The Marching Warrior Pride competed in 7 marching competitions. The band finished first out of three places while earning a first division rating at both District and Regional. Their show was titled Ireland: of Legend and Lore by Robert W. Smith. The show featured the woodwinds playing tin whistles and the percussion playing several solos. The show was a great crowd-pleaser. In late October the band moved into concert and jazz for the rest of the school year.

BUSINESS AND VOCATIONAL

BUILDING THE FUTURE

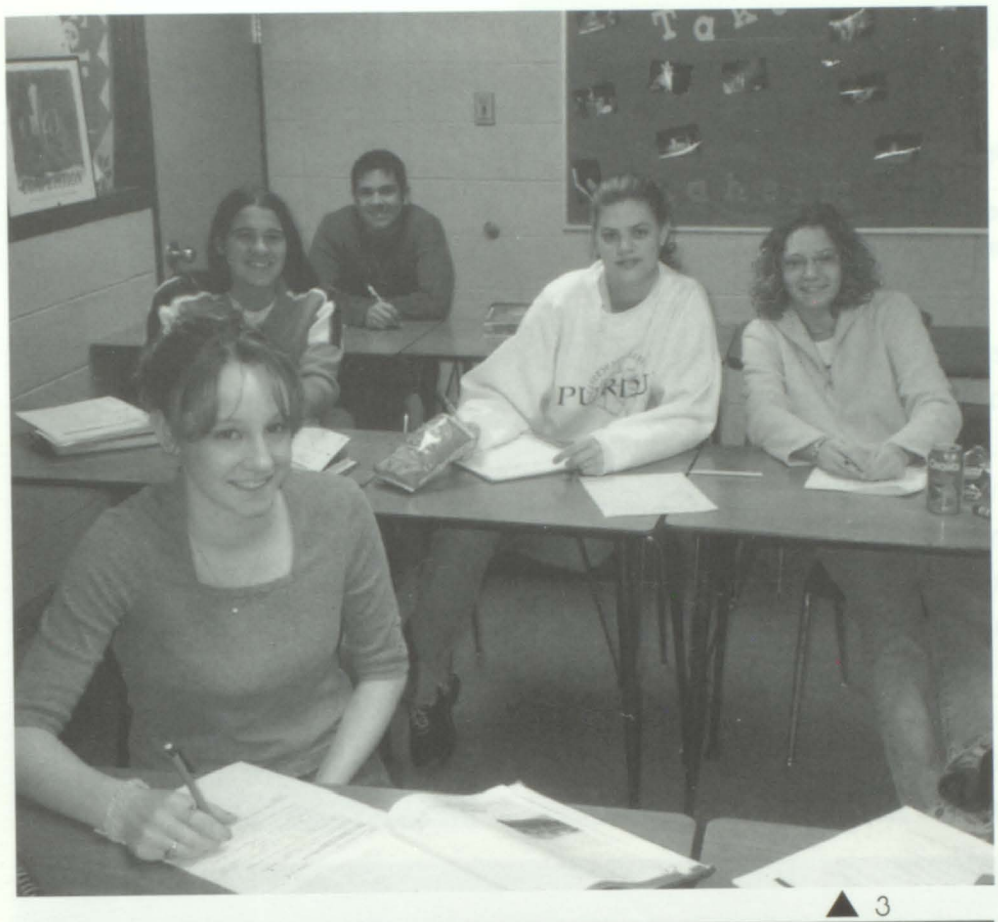

The Wawasee Area Career and Technical Cooperative had a great year. Mr. Phil Metcalf continued in the director's role. Mr. Warren continued to teach agriculture classes. Mr. Craig was back again to teach autos. The automotive class was a two-year program starting with the beginning class covering engines, transmissions, drive axles, brakes, and suspensions. There was a new opportunity for students to sign up for a class at KCH in Warsaw. Students were able to work with medical personnel and to see what they did day in and day out Mr. Waltz's building trades class built yet another beautiful house. Wawasee students also took part in the cosmetology program at Fairfield High School. Mr. Murphy placed 50 I.C.E students in jobs throughout the community. Business classes taught by Mrs. White and Mr. Schutz prepared vocational students for opportunities as juniors and seniors.

CHiGR

SINGING A SONG

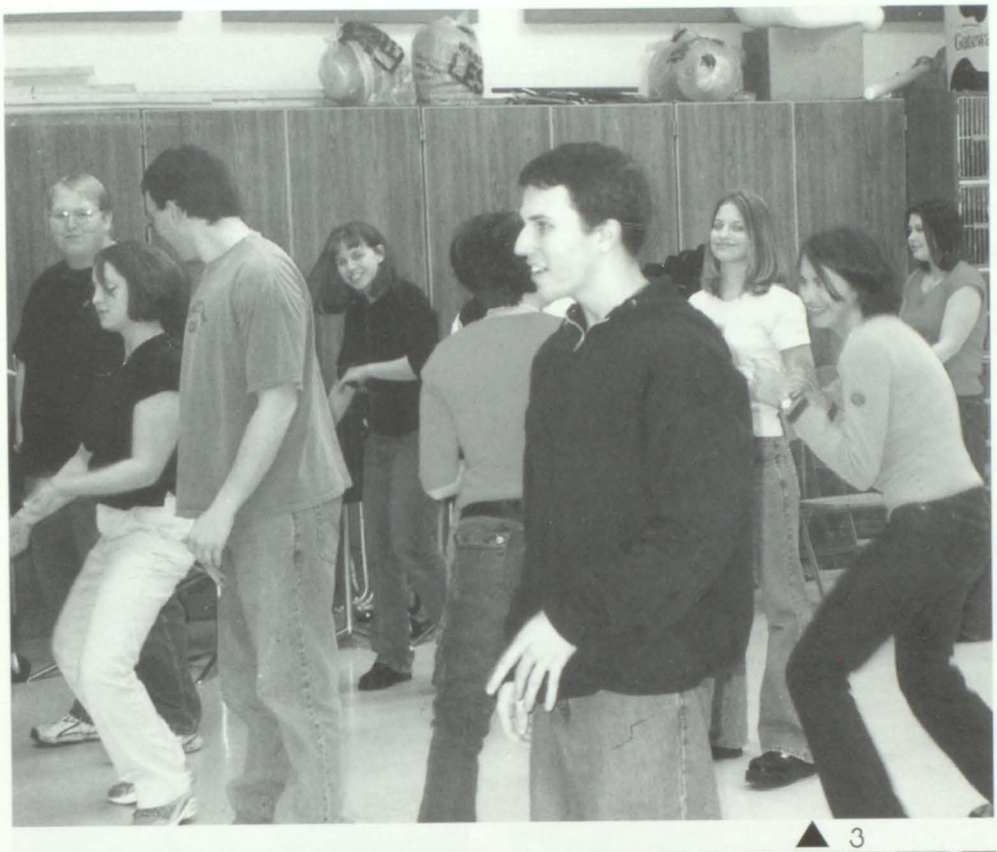

Again the choir proved that they are an important part of Wawasee High School. There were two classes of choir offered, and the students had to audition to be in both the mixed choir and concert choir. Choir allowed students to have fun while entertaining the community. Choir gave students the opportunity to perform in numerous concerts and shows. The choirs both participated in the Christmas program, the Corporation Music Festival, and the Pops Spectacular. Students stated that choir was a fun class and that they enjoyed Mrs. Meadows as the teacher. They also held a fund-raiser, selling poinsettias for Christmas. This money was used to purchase music supplies.

FAM ily AND CONSUMER SC ience

COOKING UP PRIDE

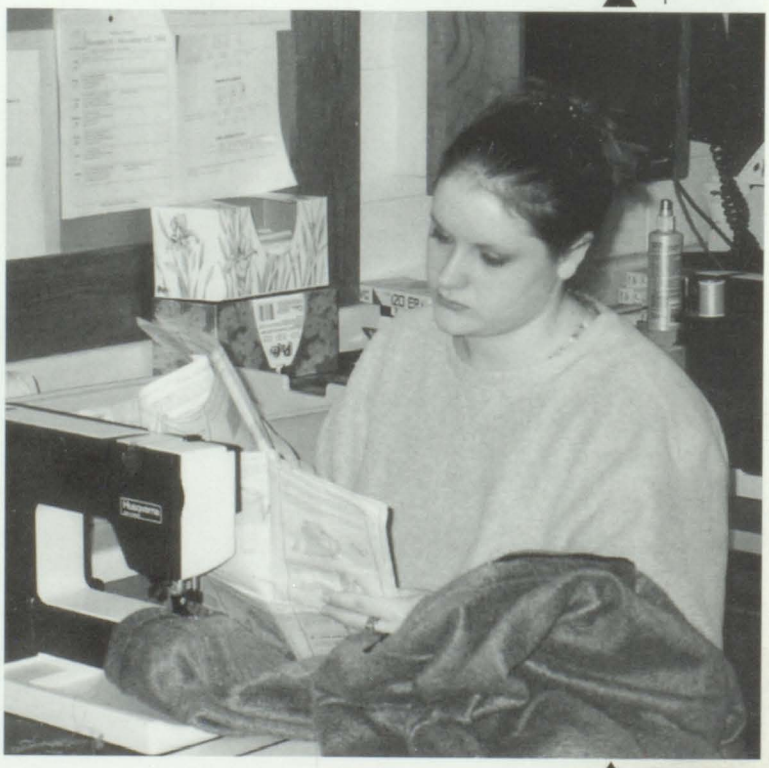

The Family and Consumer Science department offered information and experience to students to meet their needs as adults. In interior design, students traveled around the area to visit many unique homes, and for their semester project they designed a dream home. In child development the students brought in children for a half-day around Christmas. The students also experienced taking virtual babies home for two nights as well as creating children's games. The nutrition and wellness class was responsible for all those wonderful smells in the hallways. They learned nutrition through decorating cakes, making the meals for the athletic sectional lunches and making foreign foods. In the family relations class students learned what crisis situations were found in families and marriages. The traditional sewing class learned how to sew a garment as well as cross-stich. There were many different classes to choose from when signing up for family and consumer science.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

SPEAKING THE LANGUAGE

The foreign language department had a fun-filled year. Mrs. Flores was added to the foreign language family. The department continued to use the same method of learning vocabulary words by telling stories and acting them out. A new aspect was having the students read children's books in the foreign language in order to advance students' speaking, reading, and writing skills. Also, many of the classes had "Cultural Fridays," where the students took turns telling the class information about the foreign country and brought in authentic food. Some of the Spanish students raised money to go with the Lion's Club on their annual eye glasses trip. Overall, between new additions and old traditions, the students expanded their knowledge in the foreign language department.

GUIDING STUDENTS

It was another great year for the guidance counselors and special needs teachers with their accomplishing many goals. Ms. Angle had students whose last names started with A-G; Mrs. Preheim had H-O; Mr. Hunsberger had P-Z. Secretaries Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Judy saved the counselors a great deal of time by helping with schedules and any odds and ends needing to be done. The guidance department was in charge of ISTEP testing in both September and March; sign up for summer school in April; and honors day May 25th. Guidance counselors looked into trimester. The major advantage for students was that they would have more classes to chose from. The students would also only have five classes a day, but they would be 70 minutes long. The special needs department helped students in academic areas that they found to be difficult.

INDUSTRIAL TECHNOLOGY

DEVELOPING SKILLS

Industrial Technology students had many classes that they could choose from. The classes were taught by Mr. Coblentz and Mr. McAdams. The students were very active and involved in the projects that they did. Some of the classes they could choose from were intro to technology, construction systems, construction building, manufacturing enterprise, and design construction. Students were also allowed to take design classes such as CAD and design drafting in which computer systems were used to draw and design projects. Mr. Colblentz offered a class that designed and built a supermileage car for the Indiana Math Science Technology Association. The race was held in April.

ENGLISH

READING THE LITERATURE

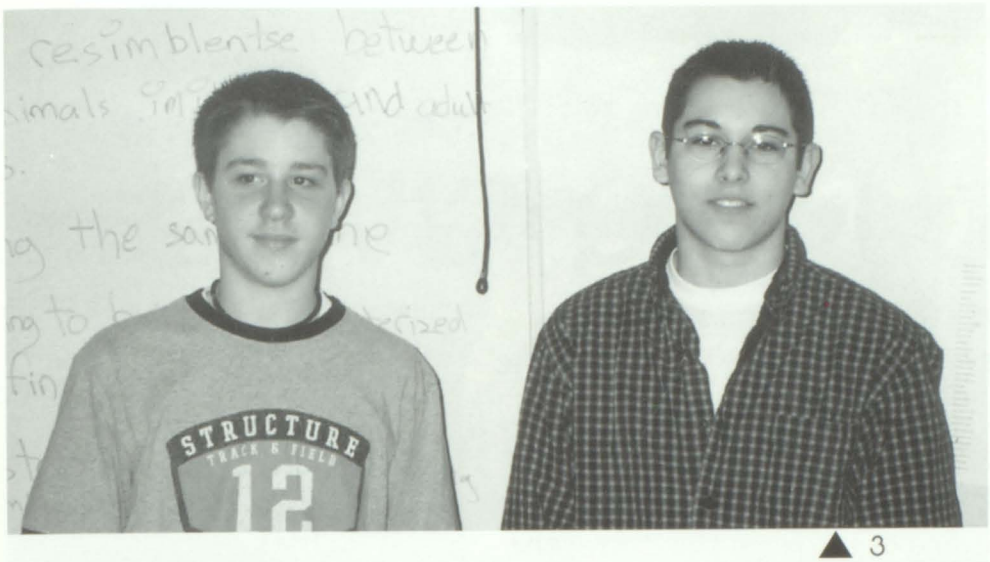

The English department joined together to create another wonderful year. One more teacher was added to the English staff, Mr. Bryan Waltz. The department worked on revising classes to meet the new Indiana state standards. Because of these standards, tests were being written for students to take at the end of each year to see whether or not they were ready to go on to the next level of English. If the students did not pass the test, they would not proceed to the next level. The department also looked at new textbooks for next year's adoption. The teachers planned new concepts for vocabulary and figured out how they could fit it into their schedules so all of the students would learn new vocabulary words. Some students did the annual research papers in their classes, while others made their own magazine. Part of the excitement from English class extended into acting out skits and stories. Then there was also the students' favorite, watching movies. Both the students and the teachers in the English department accomplished much. Several goals were met to increase everyday skills in reading and writing.

LRC/PRODUCTION STUDIO

PRODUCING CHANGE

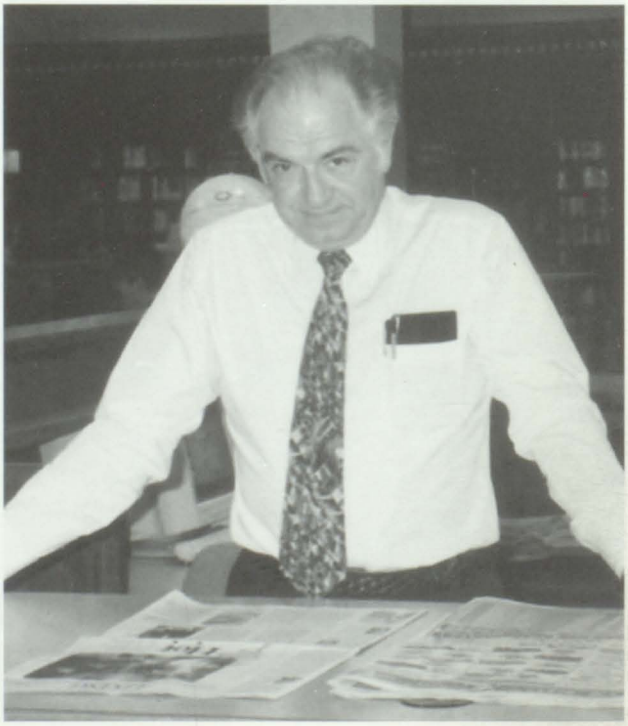

Many changes were made in the LRC and the production studio. In the fall the LRC installed a Windows version of the card catalog. Eventually students would be able to get the card catalog at home through the Internet. One third of the LRC's VCRs on the video retrieval system were upgraded. With a six thousand dollar reading grant from the state, the LRC planned to purchase more books. The production studio received a great deal of brand new digital equipment for their future studio to be moved to what used to be the board room. The plans included a separate sound room for CD recording and voiceovers. Students involved with the production studio did the morning news, video editing for different departments in the school, community projects, the sound for the play and the musical, and filmed the sports events. Everyone in the LRC and the production studio worked hard and made many improvements.

MATHEMATICS

CALCULATING NUMBERS

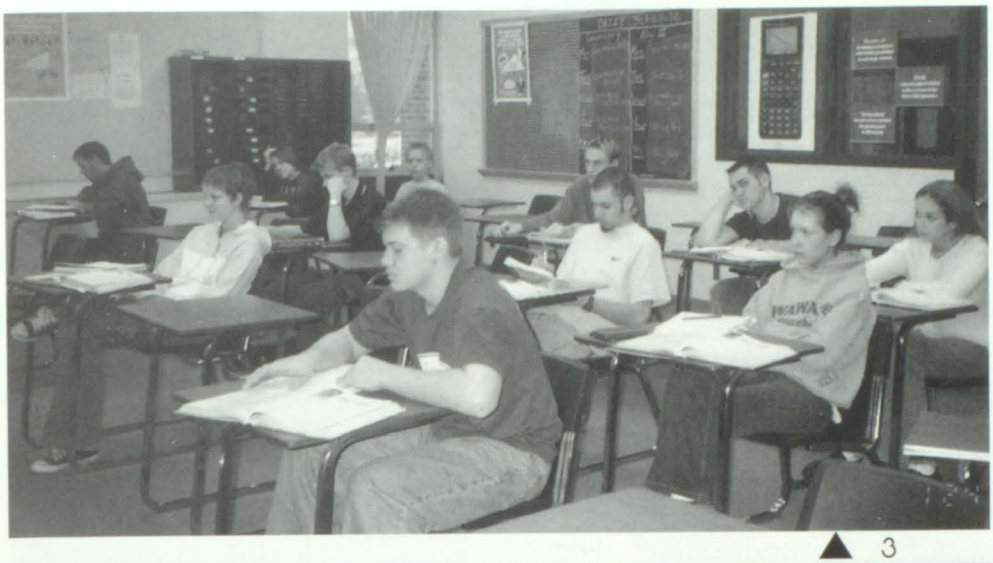

The math department developed its curriculum to meet the standards and objectives set by the state. The department was lead by chairperson Mrs. Cherrie Martin. An addition to the staff this year was Miss Lynn Schroeder. Miss Schroeder was originally from Jimtown. She graduated from Purdue last spring. She taught Algebra I and geometry. The curriculum of the math department contributed to the 2000 WHS Super Bowl team placing a superb third place at the state competition, and the 2001 Super Bowl team worked to improve its standing. The curriculum offered a number of courses including problem solving, discrete math, pre-algebra, Algebra I, geometry, Algebra II, pre-calculus, and AP calculus.

NEWSPAPER

WRITING STORIES

The school newspaper, Smoke Signals, had another successful year filled with great stories and information. The staff had a great time coming up with new ideas. They had several new features such as horoscopes and student of the month. Mrs. Kromer supervised the staff for the second year. Returning staff member Adam Drent was the editor-in-chief. His assistant editor was Katie Sabones who was also head photographer. The staff pasted up the paper using Pagemaker and digital photographs taken by the staff and then sent it to the New Paris Farmer's Exchange for publication. They published a total of eight issues of the paper and produced their annual magazine in March.

Office Personnel

HELPING OTHERS

The office personnel had an assortment of responsibilities. Win School software allowed the secretaries to access students' records such as class schedules, grades, and attendance. The secretaries in the guidance office, Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Judy, helped out with scholarships, ISTEP+, college applications, and honor's day. Mrs. Alexander continued to help with everyday emergencies and once again sponsored the bloodmobile visit. There was a new secretary in the attendance office, Mrs. Henderson. She kept the attendance office running smoothly. Mrs. Bruch and Mrs. Bultemeier in the main office handled everything from switchboard, to work permits, to Valentine's Day flowers. Mrs. Byrd kept the books balanced; Mrs. VanLue juggled the athletic paperwork; and Mrs. Daniel organized the adult education program.

ORCHESTRA

MAKING MUSIC

Orchestra's year consisted of concerts, contests, and many new music selections. The orchestra was a combination of the full orchestra and the strings group. The orchestra and the strings group performed in the annual Christmas concert and in the Corporation Music Festival. The strings also performed new pieces that consisted of different styles and time periods. The orchestra played a variety of songs including "Marcella Suite" by Benedetto. Another great selection performed was "Pendleton Suite" written by M.L. Daniels. Many individuals competed on their own in the solo and ensemble contest in January and placed very well. The students in orchestra worked tremendously hard and improved greatly. They dedicated their time towards playing their instruments.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

GETTING FIT

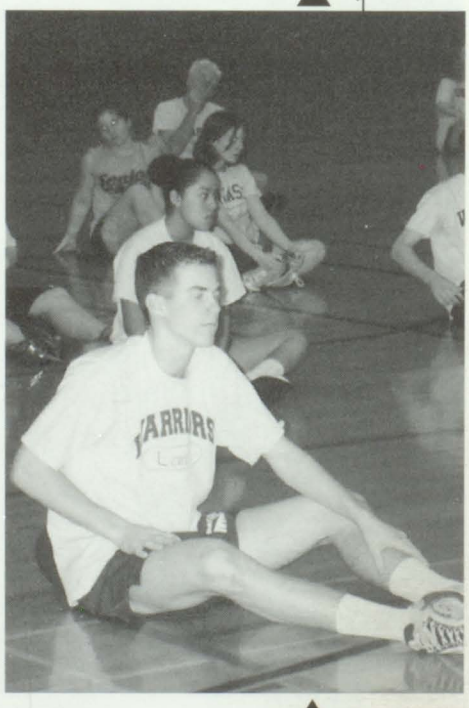

Physical education was a course that most freshmen looked forward to participating in during their first semester. There was also another requirement of a second semester anytime during a student's high school career. PE had a large variety of options to take part in. There were lifetime activities, team sports, and regular PE. Other electives were weight lifting, lifeguarding, and PE plus class. This educational program also offered an athletic training course. It gave students the opportunity to work in real live situations in the field of sports when there was an injury. Also, another part of taking a PE class was learning community CPR and the different life saving techniques. In physical education there was an annual triathlon every fall and spring that everyone took part in. Every student worked hard to prepare for this big event, and the participation and enthusiasm were excellent.

Investigating Science

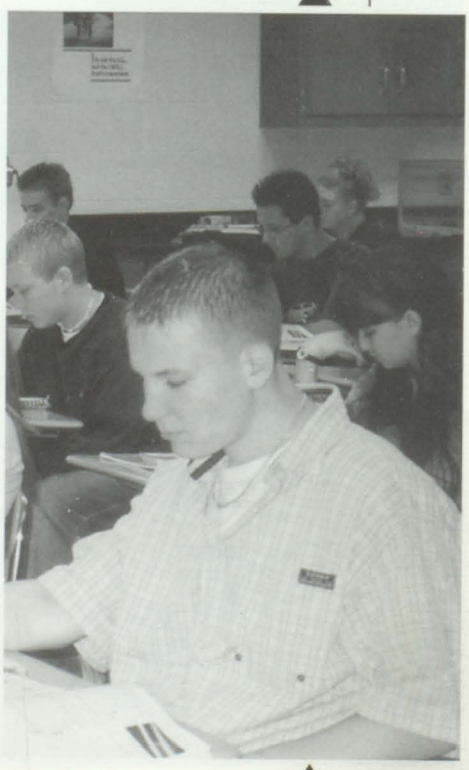

In the science department Miss Freed and Miss Neff were the new members of the science faculty. With the changes that were made last year such as getting new textbooks and also new programs, the teachers of the science department had to make some changes in the way they taught their classes. Mrs. Schumm was science department chairperson for the second year. She also had a student teacher Mr. Nguyen, a WHS graduate, first semester. DREAM COMPANY & SHOW CHOIR

SINGING TUNES

The music department's Dream Company and Show Choir accomplished a great deal. They had several performances and contests. Dream Company performed the "Star Spangled Banner" at a girls' basketball game. They went to Indiana State School Music Association's District Contest where they received a first rating. Show Choir was also very busy. They performed the "Star Spangled Banner" at a boys' basketball game, sang at the Veteran's Day convocation, and received a first rating at the Indiana State School Music Association's District Contest. They went on to receive another first place at the state competition in Indianapolis. Both groups did several additional performances for community and county groups.

MAKING HISTORY

The social sciences gave students the opportunity to learn not only about history, but explore the future. Seniors in economics worked in the computer lab with the Internet and other programs to help prepare for the future. In that class they learned how to make personal budgets, and they also had to do a semester project. Seniors also learned about the government and laws in Mrs. Myers' government class. Juniors in Mr. Karns's and Mr. Taylor's classes studied U.S. history and did many projects. Sophomores in Mr. Aalbregtse's world civilization class studied many different cultures and events from the past. In world geography, students studied many parts of the world and maps.

SUPPORT STAFF

MAINTAINING FACILITIES

The cooks and custodians of Wawasee High School had a fantastic year. The cooks accomplished many things. They were able to meet the dietary needs of most students in the school. They also made the cafeteria a pleasant place to be in. They always tried to get the students whatever they needed and as fast as they could. They were always prepared and always there. The custodians also did many things. They were always there if the teachers or the students needed them. When we had no water, they put water dispensers around the school so the students could have safe water to drink. They helped construct and tear down convocations. They also helped fix lighting in rooms or kept the temperature comfortable for the students and faculty. They were always there to clean the halls and rooms at night. The cooks and custodians were very helpful, and we were thankful to have them at Wawasee High School.

MAKING A LEGEND

The yearbook staff started the first semester visiting local businesses for ads in the yearbook. They also worked on selecting the book's theme "Another Brick in the Wall." But all students were not merely "another brick." There were many students that were unique and had strange and unusual talents that deserved to be recognized. Next the yearbook staff designed the cover, trying to match the concept of Pink Floyd's cover for The Dark Side of the Moon with Another Brick in the Wall. In the second semester things became very stressful with deadlines. Many of the deadlines were challenging, but everyone worked together to make it a little easier. It was a very rewarding experience putting the Legend together.

They had a trip to Chicago on December 9, 2000, to visit the Art Institute. They also had a Christmas party in late December. In April they traveled to the Old Bag Factory in Goshen to see the various pieces of pottery there. The art club provided a chance for those students interested in art to travel to an assortment of places to see a variety of artistic works. The chess club was sponsored by Mrs. Baird once again. They met often and played at least once a day. Members played after school Tuesday and Thursday and also before school on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Mrs. Baird not only sponsored the chess club, but also played. This club was for students as well as faculty at Wawasee. The spring tournament was one of five that were scheduled. Each tourney was determined on time and a point system in which each piece being taken was worth several points, and the time limit was thirty minutes. The chess club had a great year.

DECA had a successful year with 50 members. They started off doing their yearly fundraisers including the sucker and pizza sales. They tried a new fundraiser, and it was a bowl-a-thon. However, most of the money that was used for DECA was donated from local businesses. The regional competition was held at Scottsdale Mall in South Bend. Out of the 50 members, 27 of them qualified for state competition in Indianapolis March 3,4,5. Of the 27 DECA club members that competed at state, one qualified for nationals. Matt Klaassen qualified for nationals in vehicles and petroleum. Officers for DECA were president, Eric Cox; vice-president, Rob Chalfant; treasurer, Tyler Bell; secretary, Nate Edgington. DRAMA CLUB

PERFORMING SHOWS

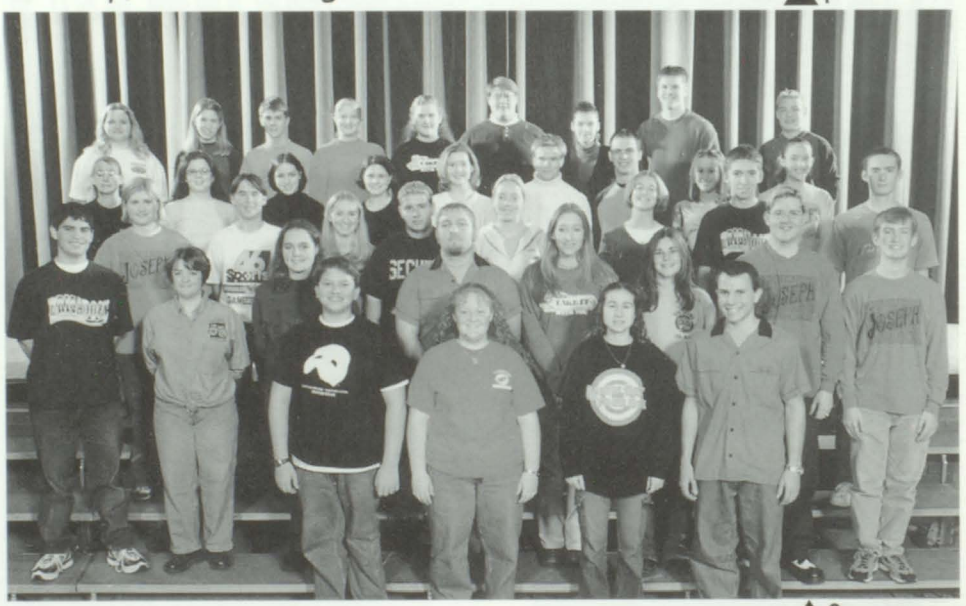

The drama club had an outstanding year. They started off with the fall play You Can't Take it with You. This play had a cast of 30, and many members were involved with helping on stage- craft and doing make-up for the cast members. The drama club held many fundraisers, one of which was the selling of candles and the other was selling pizza. The club went on a field trip to Chicago to watch Annie Get Your Gun. They also went to Concord High School to see the Sound of Music. The drama club also helped with the musical Fiddler on the Roof. This musical had a cast of 74. The participants were Eric Cox, Ryan Vallow, Scott Stuck, Nate Edgington, Gretchen Hile, Dannie Goldenberg, Tyler Bell, and Mike Ellsworth. All six of the participants advanced to the national competion in Orlando, Florida. In team and single events they all did a great job at the conference. Mrs. White was the new sponsor of the club. FELLOWSHIP OF CHRISTIAN ATHLETES

DEVOTING THEIR LIVES

Fellowship of Christian Athletes gained more than just school knowledge. Mr. Company was again the sponsor for FCA. Although a teacher was the sponsor, students took the initiative. Members volunteered taking turns leading discussions and Bible studies at the meetings. FCA also opened the doors to students that did not participate in school sponsored sports. The high school faculty was encouraged to join the members. A majority of the time was spent in prayer. The club participated in the annual "See You at the Pole!" where close to one hundred students, faculty, youth leaders, and community members joined around the school's flag pole to pray for the government, school, churches, community, and friends.

FUTURE EDUCATORS IN ACTION

LEARNING LESSONS

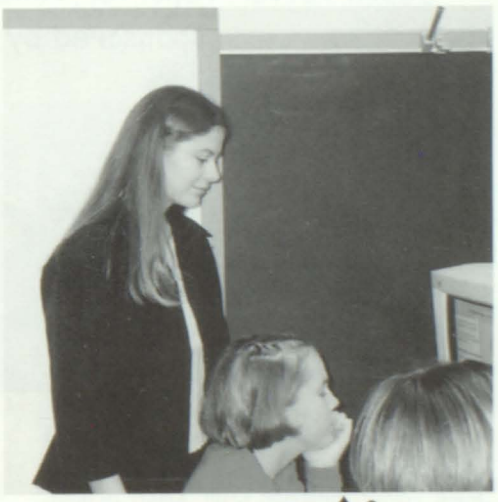

▲1

Future Educators in Action enjoyed a wonderful year. Several of the members gained experience as they participated in the annual observation day. They were able to go to any of the schools in the Wawasee district and become a teacher for part of the school day. Running errands, making copies, helping students read, and even teaching part of the class were some of tasks the members participated in. This opportunity and experience helped students to decide if education was the career they wanted to pursue. Mr. Iden was the sponsor for FEA. FEA officers included Heather Coy, president; Elyse Hardin, vice-president; Crystal Tudor, secretary; and Jenna Rantz, secretary/treasurer.

JUDGING SOIL

The Wawasee High School FFA participated in many activities. They won the state soils competition and had 8 members qualify for nationals. In May these 8 individuals competed in the national soils competition in Oklahoma. They were also very successful in the district leadership contest. In the contest they wrote essays, gave speeches and performed demonstrations. Individuals qualified for state in this contest also. Livestock, dairy, and horse judging teams were very prosperous this year. The FFA had their annual member auction in March for fundraising. Eight hours of a member's work was auctioned off to bidders. INTERNATIONAL THESPIAN SOCIETY

EARNING POINTS

▲1

The International Thespian Society was an organization that honored students' achievements and involvement in theatre arts. Students became members of the society when they earned enough points by performing work in the theatre arts. Participating in two productions for a total of 100 hours of work earned enough points for membership. Once a student had attained membership, the sponsor might reward further recognition to them when they earned additional points. The sponsor of the Wawasee High School International Thespian Society was Miss Wooldridge. She granted Thespian membership to students and made the final decision regarding the awarding of Thespian points to members. Wawasee had 21 members in the International Thespian Society.

JAZZ BAND

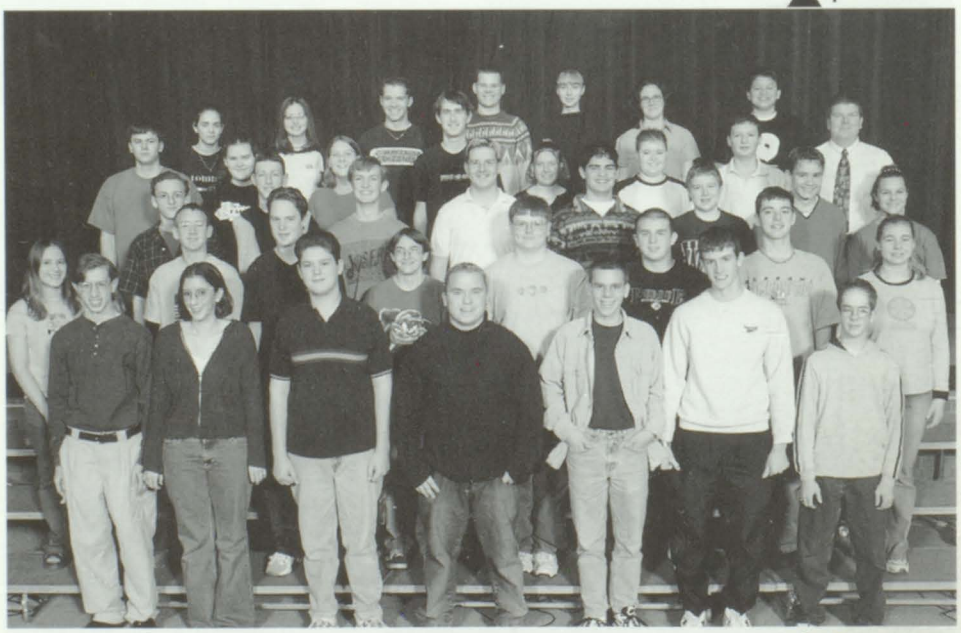

SUPPORTING WARRIORS

The Wawasee jazz band kept the tradition of playing at several girls' and boys' basketball games this season. Each member had to audition numerous times to join the club. The selected members then devoted many hours practicing to perfect the group. The jazz band did a great job motivating the players as well as the spectators. Selected individuals were chosen to play the national anthem before the games began. The jazz band was directed by Mr. Clark. Mr. Clark's main goal for the jazz band was to get the crowd involved and pumped up. The band also reacted when there were tense moments on the court in order to insure crowd participation. The jazz band also provided the cheerleaders with music during the pre-game and half-time shows. The players, cheerleaders, as well as the spectators seemed to have appreciated the band. Jazz band benefited the members as well as this allowed them to study music and display their individual talents along with their team playing skills. This was a wonderful opportunity for students to learn about music.

SOFTBALL

HITTING HOMERUNS

The girls' softball teams had an interesting year. They started with a new head coach Cory Schutz. Assistant coaches were Jen Morgan, Angie Hoover and Kathy Boggs. The girls played against good teams early on and had struggles. Coach Schutz commented, "With a younger team, we experienced some 'growing pains' if you will." Many of the varsity players came up from last year's JV team. In fact, one of the pitchers for varsity, Haley Bird, was a freshman. At the end of April the varsity record was 6 wins and 10 losses, while the JV record was 3-6. A key win was against Rochester. Several of the games were canceled and rescheduled due to bad weather.

Returning lettermen were Kayla Auer, Ashley Ganz, Kate Murphy, Andrea Sands, Margo Searfoss, and Staci VanLue. New additions to the varsity team were Candice Brown and Cara Windle. The girls sought to continue the tradition of winning sectionals, which they had begun the previous year. They played through the cold and the rain. The team had a lot of fun, and everyone improved tremendously.

Along with very strong team members, sophomore Steven Conrad was rated as one of the top 100 juniors in the nation and in the top 5 in the state. CHEERLEADING

BUILDING SPIRIT

The cheerleaders exprienced a year of change. They were allowed to try out for either basketball or football season. This left them able to do other extracurricular activities. The head coach was Kim Conrad; varsity/JV coach was Barb Trobaugh; and the freshman coach was Deb Roth. The girls cheered at football games and both boys' and girls' basketball games. They also competed in the first ever NLC cheer competition in October. That competition was hosted by the Warriors. This took a great amount of work for both the coaches and the girls to put together, and it was planned very tediously. In this competition the combined varsity/JV placed second, while the freshmen placed first. The cheerleaders held two clinics that had wonderful turnouts. After the clinics the young participants performed at a home football or basketball game. Several lifters joined the girls for the basketball season making the end of the season fun and full of excitement.

ENJOYING THE MAGIC

May 19, 2001, was a very special prom night. The theme was "An Evening Under the Stars" with the colors of purple and silver. The class prom sponsors and the prom committee worked hard all day Saturday arriving at the high school at seven in the morning and taking everything to Greencroft in Goshen. At 9:00 it was time for the seniors to appear and have the parents valet park their cars. Juniors Bobby Likens and Candice Brown announced the couples as they entered Greencroft. Later in the evening Seth Beer, class president, led the class toast and the garter ceremony. Soon after came the crowning of the royalty, Tyson Niles, queen, and Nathan Goldenburg, king. Prom lasted until 12:00; then many dedicated parents decorated the P.E. gym for after prom. There were many fun things to do such as take crazy pictures, play volleyball and basketball, and listen to a very interesting band. The seniors also enjoyed the video of childhood pictures prepared by Mrs. Hursh. Finally the hypnotist came and performed his works on Justin Rider, James Mikolajczak, and Krystle Legarda. On Sunday morning most of the seniors went to the Dunes, Chicago, or Cedar Point. All and all the prom was a most enjoyable experience.

COMMENCEMENT

BUILDING A LADDER

On a cool Friday night on May 25, 228 seniors and 6 foreign exchange students entered the spectator gym as the orchestra played "Pomp and Circumstance." After a welcome by class president Seth Beer, Katie Adams, a member of the senior class, delivered the invocation. Tyson Niles introduced Paul Strycker, Salutatorian, who admonished the graduates not to forget their family and friends. Lucas White, a graduating senior, introduced Valedictorian Jonathan Trojan who recounted the mathematical statistics on how many bells they had heard, how many pounds of potatoes they had eaten and how many fire drills they had enjoyed during their 4 years as students. The principal, Mr. Alan Frank, and the assistant principal, Mr. Dave Matz, then awarded the diplomas and certificates. After all the seniors had crossed the stage, they turned their tassels and became graduates. Mark Merchant gave the benediction, and then the class of 2001 went outside to toss their hats and celebrate their great achievement.

AWAITING LEADERSHIP

The junior class had a great year. In homecoming they won the float and came in second for the rest of the events. That made them second over all in the homecoming activities. Candidates for the junior girl homecoming representative were Carissa Bennett, Candice Brown, Tasha Harper, and Jessie Korenstra. For the boy candidates were Curtis Farrell, Travis Speicher, German Vallejo, and Pete Wamsley. The two that were chosen were Tasha Harper and German Vellejo. The juniors earned an estimated $6,000 in their fundraiser for their senior graduation costs. They sold odds and ends from Christmas decorations to chocolate candies.

FACING NEW GOALS

The class of 2004 made a great effort during homecoming week. They participated in all homecoming events. They placed fourth in the skit, powder puff, mural, penny pitch, and float. Simon Beer and Morgan Medlock were voted their homecoming representatives. In order for the freshmen to earn money for their senior activities, they had magazine sales. If they sold enough magazines, they did not have to pay as much for prom and graduation. They also had the chance to order their class rings and to sign up for drivers' education. The freshman class council members below are row 1: Liz White, Coryn Rinker; row 2: Matt Kubacki, president; Brent Lamb, vice-president; Brittany Wihebrink, secretary/treasurer; and Cassie Ellis; row 3: Myhanh Montgomery, Krista VanLue, Kristin Schumm, Tyson Conrady, Zach Marshall, Kim Hoover, and Jodi Beer.

PUBLISHING THE LEGEND

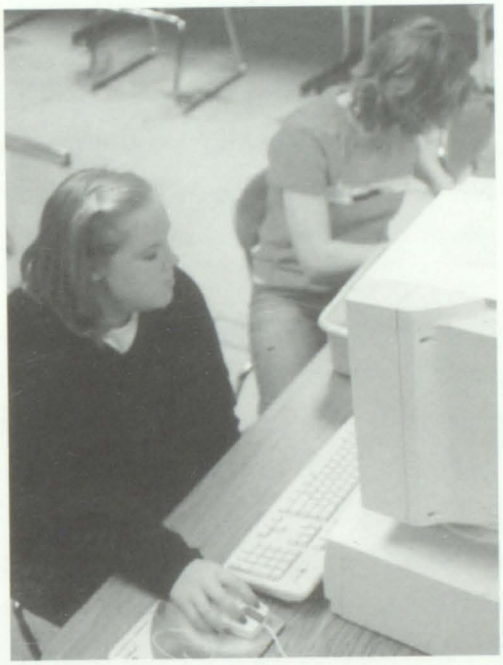

The yearbook staff was made up of 14 students. There were six deadlines that needed to be completed by the end of the year for 204 pages. The paper was Bordeaux 80# gloss and was cut 8 ½ x 11. Herff Jones Publishers in Shawnee Mission, Kansas, printed the yearbooks. The cover was a lithograph created by the staff with a matte lamination over a brick grain. Body copy was printed in Comic Sans, headlines in Brooklyn Kid and sub headlines in TagsXtreme. Each of the yearbooks cost $28 and an extra $2 was paid by the seniors if they wanted their names printed on the cover. The contract price with Herff Jones was $22,069.62 for 675 copies. There were plenty of tasks to be done by the end of the school year. There were layouts that needed to be drawn, copy that had to be finished and pictures that needed to be taken. Spring sports had to be sent in by May 7, and graduation and honors day could not be finished until the last two days of school.

Over the Years

These last four years that we've been through
So much has happened, we're long overdue
To go back and take a very good look
And flip through the pages of our old yearbooks

On that first big day: Freshman Registration
We found all our books, moving station to station
Feeling nervous, apprehensive, and so out of place
We met our new classmates, at last face to face

As underclassmen we were restricted as to
The places we went and the things we could do
But as we got older we found something new
We discovered ourselves and adopted fresh views

As upperclassmen we began driving to school
We received more privileges; we bent the rules
We did homework in groups and studied together
And slept through classes that dragged on forever

Our senior year began with college applications
Our favorite days in gym were bus evacuations
As a class we developed a unique Senior Style
Playing sports, joining clubs, and studying all the while

As mentors we helped the freshmen adjust
To a new lifestyle and gave them someone to trust
Now leaving behind, we hope to stay in touch
Throughout a lifetime that will change so much

The time has come to go our own separate ways
As life stretches out before us like a maze
The future is out there, beyond our small scope
While the years to come shine brightly with hope
