SUMMER

Fun

Summer is a time for relaxation and recuperation. Going out on the lake, sleepovers with friends, swimming, tanning–you name it, we do it. Although everyone has a different agenda, we all have one goal in mind– to let loose and have fun. Its a time where we don't have to worry about getting our homework done or handing that paper in on time. All there is to think about which bathing suit to wear! For most people, summer is the time of their life. The grass is green, the sun is hot, the water is warm. We will remember this past summer forever, all the memories will be cherished while we all wait out the school year so we can do it all again next June. So much goes on during summer its hard to sum it up in one paragraph. Junior Carolyn Gingerich says "Its my favorite time of year, I love being able to hang out all the time and take the jet skis out on the lake with my friends."

Fresh Faces at Wawasee

Bring a New School Attitude

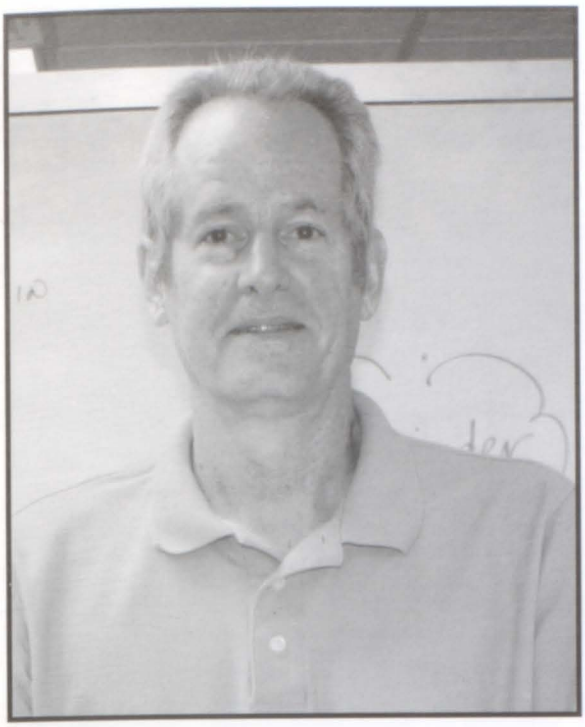

The job opportunity for Mr. Harmon (above) couldn't have come at a better time. His family was talking about moving back closer to family, when Mrs. Stevens retired. Harmon liked Wawasee at first for our good reputation. He also liked the atmosphere and thought the staff was very nice.

Mr. Castle (below) became Wawasee High School's new assistant principal. He transferred from Wawasee Middle School.

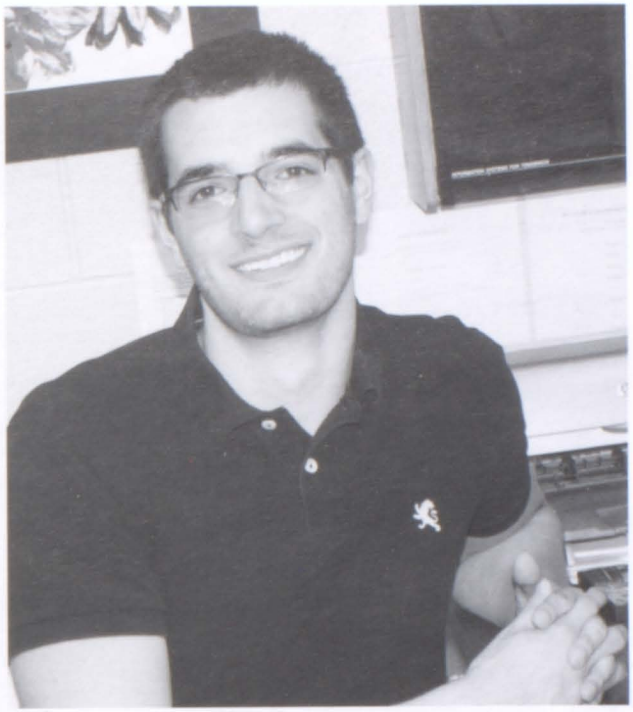

At the end of last year, the entire Wawasee corporation decided to make some changes. Many of these changes included switching faculty members around. One of these switches gave us our new assistant principal, Mr. Tony Castle. Other staff members chose to follow a different path in life. So, naturally, we needed new staff members to fill their large shoes. Mr. Paul Myer decided to become a guidance counselor at the perfect time. With Mr. Hunsberger announcing his retirement, Wawasee was in need of another person in the Guidance Office. The story is similar with Mr. Don Harmon when Mrs. Stevens announced her retirement. Mr. Harmon says, "Well, I was principal at other schools. I also grew up in Warsaw. I liked Wawasee because it has a good reputation, and it has good staff. I wanted to be closer to family as well." Another new face is Officer Howie. Officer Howie took over from Officer Kryder, who left Wawasee to become a patrolman in Milford. New staff members were not the only change this year. From large changes like the minute bell, to small changes like morning announcements, all changes were made in hopes of bettering this school. All of the administration has decided on new plans, and ideas to continue to better Wawasee.

Mr. Bauer (right) joined the Wawasee staff to help teach the new culinary arts program as well as some Nutrition and Wellness classes.

Mr. Hopkins (left) is an English teacher that graduated from Grace College. He came in for Mrs. Wade at the end of the third trimester.

Jennifer said that the changes were hardly noticeable. She also said "It was nice to see Mr. Cassel again after middle school! He showed an interest in our theater department which [she] really appreciated!"

Jennifer Thystrup

Holly said that she thought the "changes were good. They're helping us be more responsible. People over-thought the minute bell thing." Holly also said that her favorite new staff member is "Mr. Meyers."

Holly Shenefield

Molly said that she thinks that the atmosphere is more friendly now. Molly says that "Mr. Meyers is a swell guy. When working in the guidance office he was always there to make you laugh."

FALLing Into Fun

We are back. School is in session, because yet again, its fall. As we count down the days until Winter Break, the air slowly turns cold because yes, its fall.

Fall is the time of year where our weekends are packed with sitting at bonfires, playing in the leaves, riding bikes, attending Halloween parties, and, of course, cheering on the football team every Friday night.

Fall is when the leaves lay upon the ground, where the air turns cold, and when the trees start to look like they are on fire.

It's that blissful time for jeans and flip flops. It's when having the windows down as you drive those country roads energizes you. Fall: a season loved by many, hated by few, and missed by all when it leaves.

But slowly, the trees become bare, and the weather turns bitter. All too soon, the leaves change into crumpled piles, hiding under blankets of snow because too soon, it's winter.

HOMECOMING HITS HARD

All Around the World

The theme for homecoming 2010 was 'All Around the World." On different days throughout the week students in every grade supported school spirit by dressing according to the theme.

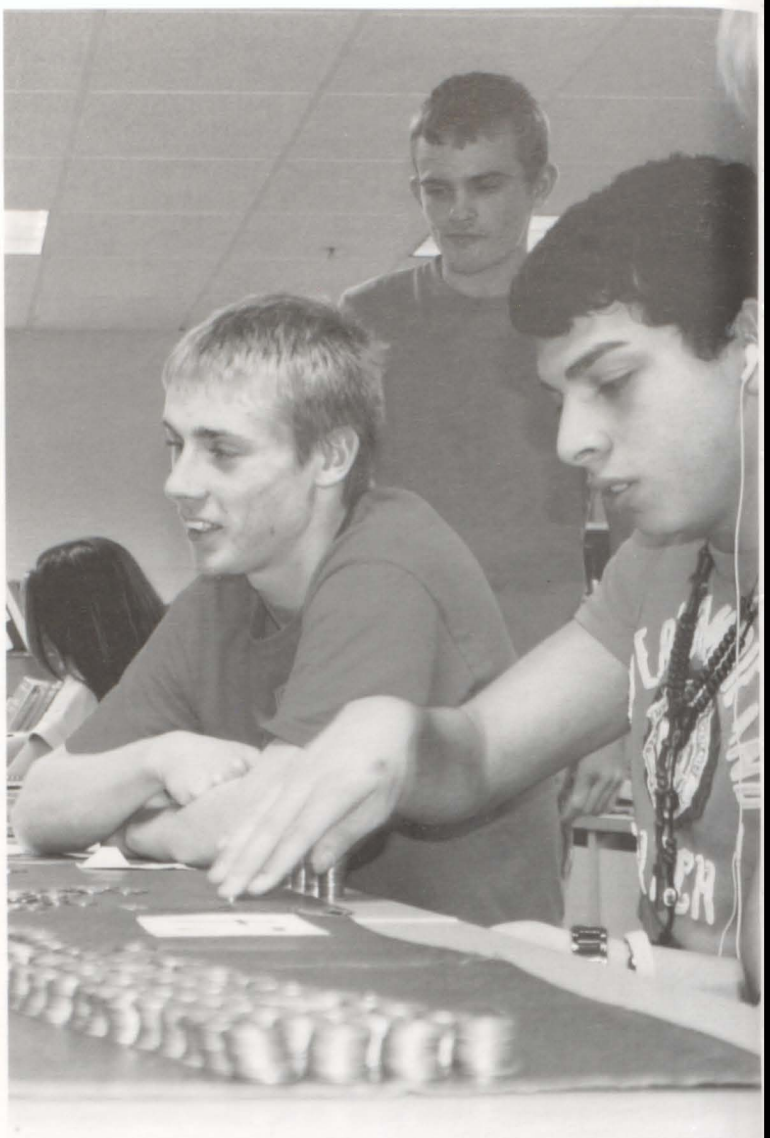

On Monday students accessorized with items from the continent that was given to each grade. Freshman were given South America, Sophomores had Europe, Juniors were assigned Africa and Seniors designated with Asia. Alcoves were decorated and some students truly embraced everything about homecoming week. Senior Ben Homan says "It was great to see so much school spirit on the dress up days, and even more at the football game when we annihilated Warsaw."

On Tie-Dye Tuesday, lots of students made their own colorful t-shirts and showed them off on this day.

Wednesday was a day where everyone could dress up as a warrior from their continent. Many seniors sported the ninja look while juniors dressed as African tribal warriors. Vikings were popular among the sophomores, and no one really knew what the freshman were doing.

On Thursday it was traditional class color day. Seniors sported blue, juniors rocked green, sophomores wore orange, and freshman made due with yellow.

Friday, the classes united and students came to school decked out in everything green and gold– from masks to jerseys to facepaint–to show school spirit. Senior Sierra D'Amore definitely went all out, saying "It's my senior year and I wanna leave on a good note and do all I can to support the school before I leave."

WEEK

Homecoming Court

Homecoming is a time when the alumni from the past come back and see all the differences that have been brought to Wawasee High School. There are a number of events that happen the week before Homecoming that gets all the students pumped up for the big game. Monday Night Lights was added this year to get the students hyped up for the game of the year against Wawasee's long time rival, Warsaw. The Warriors managed to win back the "W" trophy in an epic win beating Warsaw 26-7. Part of the Homecoming tradition is voting in a Homecoming King and Queen and this year the student body voted for Alyson Walbridge and Josh Dingeldein to be the high school royalty.

Eyes WITH PRIDE!

The band is a team, a unit, and a family. Many people do not realize all of the hard work, emotions, and time that goes into putting a show together.This year it seemed that the obstacles faced were greater than years past, but the band pushed through them to become a stronger band. The band welcomed a new band director who gave them a new perspective. Matt Sitts, assistant band director during the 2009-2010 season, took over after the band's initial director took a leave of absence. Most band students adjusted well to the transition. "In my personal opinion, Mr. Elliott was a good director, but it's going to take someone like Mr. Sitts to rebuild the band program.", said sophomore Ben Rairigh. The band is always pushing towards a higher goal, and by doing that they are becoming better. Ben went on to say, "I thought this year a lot better [than last year]; the attitude problems were almost completely gone, and it seemed to me that everyone who was in band this year really wanted to be there."

Great job this year everyone! Next year is a new year, and time to grow even more! No coulda shoulda woulda!

On the night of November 6th everyone at Wawasee High School got ready for "A Night on the Town". Earlier that morning the SRC transformed the annex gym into something unrecognizable! The dull bleachers were covered with a city scape, lights were strung along the skyline, and balloons floated from the floor to the air. The gym actually looked as if it could be used as dance hall. Around 8 o'clock students rushed into the gym, and the loud music began to pound in everyones' ears for the rest of the night. There were songs that were slow, and techno songs that got everyone pumped up. The reactions from most of the students here at Wawasee was that this was by far the best Semi-Formal that we have ever had.

And the question remains, Was Semi a hit or miss this year?

When asked what the best thing about semi was, Chelsea Los (12) answered, "The attitude of the students! It was just a mass of dancing people."

Chelsea Los

Jaclyn Parzygnot (11) made a statement of how the dance was compared to last year, "I think that this year's decorating was a lot better than last, and the music too!"

Jaclyn Parzygnot

This year Kyle Manning (12) commented on the dance, saying, "I legitimately felt that i wasn't being look down upon by teachers and that we could really have fun with our friends.

Kyle Manning

When asked what could be changed for next year, Shelby Newhard (12) answered, "Honestly, this was the best semi by far. I hope next year is just as great. Even if I won't be here."

"HARVEY" IS A HIT

Making Invisible Friends Cool Again

from old Celtic mythology. A fairy spirit in animal form, always very large. The pooka appears here and there, now and then, to this one and that one...

Wawasee High School thespians took on the play "Harvey" by Mary Chase this November. Mrs. Thornburg was assisted by Mrs. Wilson and Ms. Short in directing. The play tells the tale of Elwood P. Dowd (Nick Frecker, 12), a happy-go-lucky middle-aged man whose best friend is an invisible, 6' tall white rabbit named Harvey...who just happens to be a pooka. Hilarious situations arise as Dowd's uptight sister Veta (Jennifer Thystrup, 12) and her daughter Myrtle Mae (Sophia Katsarapolis, 11) tries to have him committed. After Dowd is mistakenly released and Veta committed instead, Nurse Kelly (Miranda Moss, 11) and the newly hired Dr. Sanderson (Jake Doll, 12) try to navigate their love-hate relationship, and Dr. Chumley (Ian Donahoe, 12, pictured right) races to save his reputation with the help of his all-brawn no-brains orderly Mr. Wilson (Tristan Palmer, 10). As his family and newfound friends at the sanitarium try to make sense of his hallucination, no one is quite sure who is really crazy in the end...

"There are no small parts..." Though these three ladies had limited time on stage, their antics caused quite a stir!

Top: Megan Saylor (12), as Dr. Chumley's snooty wife, accidentally reveals Elwood and Harvey's secrets.
Middle: Mikala Perzanowski (12), as Veta's not-so-helpful maid, hides the guest list.
Bottom: Krista Zurcher (12), as the snarky cabbie, brings Veta to her "senses" and unknowingly saves both Elwood and Harvey.

"I never thought I'd see either of you again!" Above: Veta recounts her harrowing trip to the sanitarium to her lawyer Judge Gaffney (Ian Brumbaugh, 11) and her daughter Myrtle Mae.

Some people just don't understand. Right: Wilson nearly gets physical as he vents his frustration with Harvey to Elwood.

Right: Veta asks Elwood to kindly stop introducing his 6' 1 1/2" tall invisible rabbit to the very important guests of her ladies luncheon. Jennifer Thystrup says "It was really fun and challenging to balance crazy with sanity."

Below: Love blossoms in unexpected places. Myrtle Mae looks shy as Wilson lays on the "charm". This was the first major role for both Sophia Katsarapolis and Tristan Palmer.

Nurse Kelly and Dr. Sanderson fight (and flirt) their way through Elwood's curious case. Jake Doll says his favorite scene was the last fight with Miss Kelly because "it's when I finally admit I like her." He admits, however, "I didn't really like [Miranda] hitting me all the time, though."

Despite his obsession with Harvey, Elwood still manages to charm the ladies.

The Extra Point

The Warriors came back this season, and they came back hard. Lead by senior captains Josh Dingeldein, Ben Klaybor, Tommy Kehoe, and Jacob Collins, the team finished the regular season 6-3 and were undefeated at home. The offense dominated, and the defense packed a punch, but the fans were the inspiration for winning every home game. As the games passed, and the fans cheered, the Warriors gave Wawasee one of the most exciting seasons in school history. The team won Homecoming this year, facing bitter rivals Warsaw. They tamed the Tigers in a 26-7 victory. The team also brought home the Indian award when they trampled the Redskins 18-7. This season proves that we have and always will be Warriors.

The Extra Mile

Anyone who hasn't done cross country before doesn't know the integrity and hard work that needs to be put into it to have a good season. Both the boys' and girls' cross country teams had a good season. The team members and teamwork made the season better than it ever could be. When asked what was different from years past, senior Thunder Olsen answered, "There was a lot of incoming freshmen and new runners who stepped it up and made the team better." Whatever they had as a team worked for them. A shout out to both of the girls and guys teams. Great job this year!

Teamwork is key when changing around the whole season. The boys got as far as the second round of sectionals. The first round they won against Goshen High School 1-0. In the second round, the boys played a great game, but Bethany Christian High prevented the boys from winning the game, giving the boys a loss of 0-1. Great season boys!

The Warrior volleyball girls had a decent season, building a great team to dominate next year. They fought long and hard to earn their spot on the board. Unfortunately, they ended the year with a loosing score. Although the girls didn't do great; the varsity had many good seniors that certainly went out with a bang. The girls used their teamwork, and great skills to get them as far as they could. This could be a leading road for next year's team. Great job this year Lady Warriors!

This year was quite a success for the boys tennis team and the girls golf team.

The boys also were NLC sectional champions, and that was a big accomplishment for the team as a whole. There were two players, #1 doubles team, senior Nick Price and junior Westin Becker, that made it all the way to Semi-State.

Stuntin' is a Habit!

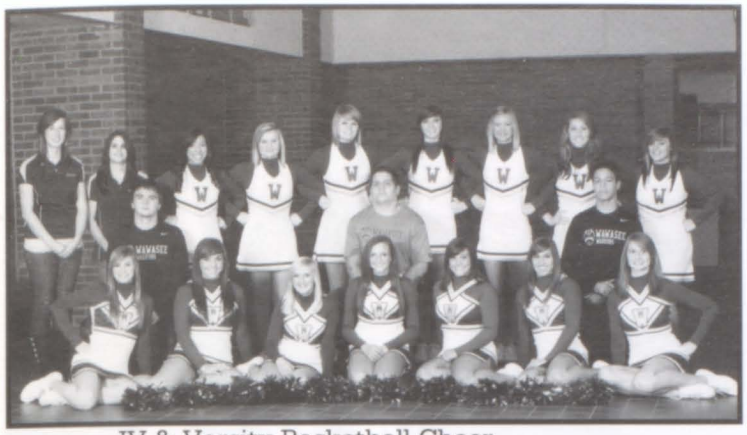

Put Her in the Air!

Cheerleading: A sport executed by few, admired by many. The team this year accomplished many things for Wawasee by leading our fans in epic chants against the opposing teams. The tantalizing rhythm engraved the tone of victory in the minds of students all across the county. With the addition of three promising athletes: Andrew Hepler, Bryce Conard, and Austin Vuittonet, the team looked and felt more coordinated. Lead by Senior Dayna Gagliano, the team looked its finest. At the IHSAA Cheerleader Competition this year the team placed fifth, a very deserving finish in the eyes of their followers and our school. The team cheered their hearts out, showing exactly what it takes to be a Warrior.

Wonder of Winter

Winter, by dictionary definition, is "a period of inactivity or decay." Many may agree with that definition by saying that winter offers nothing more than sitting under a blanket, or sleeping.

Others disagree. Winter can be full of opportunities- if you know where to look. Skiing, snowboarding, snowmobiling, snowball fights, and much more are at your fingertips.

One person's opinion of winter is much different and can be much more personal than someone else's. Winter can mean anything from a vacation to playing in the snow drifts. It can mean hot cocoa and a runny nose; snow angels and school cancellations, maybe too many. Winter is the time for cozying up by the fire, and for Christmas sweaters. It is sledding with friends, and holidays with family.

Winter can be a time of harsh cold, icy roads, and the occasional snow storm. Although we may fuss and grumble about it at the time, all is forgotten by season's end.

You may hate the cold on your face or winter in general, but there is no denying the beauty of snow covered houses, and the serenity by the fire. Winter by definition of people is simple. Winter, by another definition, is bliss.

Wishing Happy Holidays To the Wawasee Warriors

During the month of December, everyone sees a change in the atmosphere at Wawasee High School. The students all know what is coming around the corner, and so do the teachers, but there are many things that must lead up to the wonderful two weeks off that we all look forward to. There are so many traditions that come into the Holiday season. One of the most popular traditions are Ugly Christmas Sweater Thursdays during the month of December. Most of the students at Wawasee raid their parents' closet, or even their grandparents' closets to get the ultimate ugly sweater. They jingle, light up, and itch the whole day long. The sweaters never get old.

Ugly sweaters are not the only excitement. During this month, a whole lot of music and decorations come with the Holiday season to spread spirit around the school. The band, orchestra, and choir all put on concerts to play all the Christmas tunes we have known since we were young. The nurse even puts up a tree to help usher in the season. This year decorating the hallways was added to the list of many traditions that were started. Ornaments hung from the ceilings, and paper snowflakes floated in the air. Everyone knew what was coming... Christmas, and the awesome two weeks that we got off from school. Its never hard to keep the Holiday season alive at Wawasee High School.

The varsity boys team, led by seniors Riley Stichter, Trevor McKibben, and Logan Hatfield, had the poise and control to bring home a state title. After losing a star guard Jake Thompson to injury, players like Jake Clark, Trent Koble, and Zac Patrick stepped up and helped deliver success. The team had a breathtaking season, playing harder and faster than any team in the county. They developed a winning mentality early on, dominating in rebounds, points, steals, and assists. Despite a disappointing end to the season, the Wawasee Warriors set the pace for future teams to step up and win.

Breakin' it Down!

Ever since our very own Shanna Zolman made her way to the top, Wawasee Girls Basketball has been much more respected. Lady Warriors have been trying their best to live up to their name. With each coming year, the girls' team keeps the crowd cheering, and shows what it really takes to be a Warrior. This year, though, they showed a new high. They strove to win, and at the end they came out victorious. With an overall record of 15-7, the girls had an awesome season. They were great examples to us all! They showed everyone watching true effort, and real teamwork. They completely earned their season score. Congratulations, ladies!

SPRING HAS SPRUNG

Our jackets are getting lighter, and becoming more rare. Our jeans are slowly creeping up our legs, getting shorter. Plants, grass, and trees are starting to become green once more. 'April Showers' are coming.

Take a deep breath. Feel the new, fresh air, fill your lungs. Let the new morning light stream through your windows. Let the wind rush over your face, reviving you from your winter haze.

As much as we may love the previous seasons, a part of each of us is thrilled by the idea of warm weather, sunshine, and breaks from school.

Spring is a season full of mixed emotions. We may be excited for spring and summer break, yet are saddened by the thought of missing our friends. Spring means prom, graduation, and growing up for the seniors. For underclassmen, it means the summer off, and then back for more. But, for all, there is only one thought on our minds...summer break.

Take a beautiful débutante and her over-involved mother, an oblivious English lord, a good-hearted gangster and his seductive sidekick, an evangelizing showgirl, and a good-old boy just trying to land the girl of his dreams without loosing everything else. Put them all on a transAtlantic cruise, sprinkle in some song and dance (and a few brilliant disguises), and you get Cole Porter's classic Anything Goes--as performed by the Wawasee High School drama department.

Junior Ian Brumbaugh lead the cast as Billy Crocker--a nice guy who stows away aboard the S.S. American to steal his dream girl, Hope Harcourt (played by junior Miranda Moss), away from her fiancé Lord Evelyn Oakleigh (senior Jake Doll). He is aided in his quest by a hilarious cast of characters: Public Enemy #13 Moonface Martin (senior Ian Donahoe), Moon's sidekick Erma (senior Katie A. Allen), and his old friend, showgirl Reno Sweeney (sophomore Emily Harden, pictured right). Along the way, he dons a number of disguises to avoid capture, is mistaken for Snake-Eyes Johnson: Public Enemy #1, becomes a celebrity, and is then thrown in jail just hours before Hope and Evelyn's wedding. With the help of one more clever disguise and a tall tale from the Far East, the young couple is reunited...and so are a few others.

Sunshine SPRING Service BREAK 2011

It's finally the last trimester, and what better way to enjoy the rest of the school year than with a nice tan. Although most spring breakers head on down to Ft. Myers Beach in Florida, commonly known as Wawasee's second campus, there are many that spend their break doing a little more than surfing and laying out.

There are many activities offered for Ft. Myers Spring Breakers, like jet skiing, para-sailing and more. Senior Kylie Everett, says "It was a great time to relax with friends and people I know before getting the last two months of school out of the way."

Junior Jessica Wilson spent her spring break staying in Texas and crossing the border every day to Reynosa, Mexico. The group she traveled down with spent their days providing the people of Reynosa with eye care and medicine. One of her favorite memories was playing soccer with all the kids down there. Junior Heidi Kolberg also helped make the world a better place by attending a senior high youth retreat at Camp Mack. There, she participated in service projects and other camp activities.

Many of the spring sports teams have mandatory practice or games over spring break meaning many of our athletes have to stay home. Senior Ashley Truman, a member of the softball team, says "My least favorite part about spring break '11 was not having nice weather for my last spring break in high school."

The Academic Super bowl teams are teams of students that specialize in a particular area studies and then compete against other schools with their knowledge. They meet on a weekly basis to go over material and make sure each member is up to date. This year's English team beat the odds and made it to state, where they placed third. "That was sweet!" says senior Mikala Perzanowski, but her favorite memories of the year include other parts of competition days-"the bus rides, conversations, and over-abundance of food always opened the door to a lot of laughs and great times." The Social Studies team went to state as well, and came home with first place! Academic Superbowl is a great way to get involved with school activities, not only can it help with other classes its a great way to meet different people and study. They cover and expand on material that that you won't always cover in class, so if you are interested in a particular area, be a part of next year's Academic Superbowl team.

Pops Show 2011

This year's Pops Show was filled with amazing costumes, stunning dances, and of course, talented vocalists. The show focused on popular hits of the last few decades, from Elvis and the Beatles to Katy Perry and Lady Gaga. Of course, the King of Pop, Michael Jackson, couldn't be ignored either; his music was represented in three numbers! Rock band legend Queen was also paid homage. Jesse Rutan, junior, says the Queen Medley was his favorite number of the show. "Despite not dancing in that compilation, it was very energetic." That energy carried through the whole show, and made a great last show for the graduating seniors.

Artistic Expression

2011 Art Show

Each year, many Wawasee students take an art class. This is a place where they can try something new–drawing, graphic design and digital art, painting, even ceramics. Seniors have the chance to display work they've created during their time spent in the art program. Senior Alona Scott (pictured right with her display) says "For my art display I had two things that I am most proud of: my charcoal drawing and my coil pot" because she "worked really long and hard on the pot and the drawing of the car key and broken bottle was for my mom in memory of her best friend, who died drinking and driving." Alona's thoughts about her work perfectly capture why art is so important–it is a way for people to express their feelings and relieve stress. The combination of beauty and personal significance is what makes the art show meaningful for Wawasee High School artists.

Take a Swing!

Many high school sports are played completely as a team--the team wins or loses together. Some sports, like golf and tennis, involve an individual aspect. Students can succeed individually as well as together with their team. This year the girls tennis team had many individual successes, but also had new additions to their team as a whole. The boys also did very well on both fronts. Congratulations to these athletes who can beat the pressure and shine together and individually.

Commencement

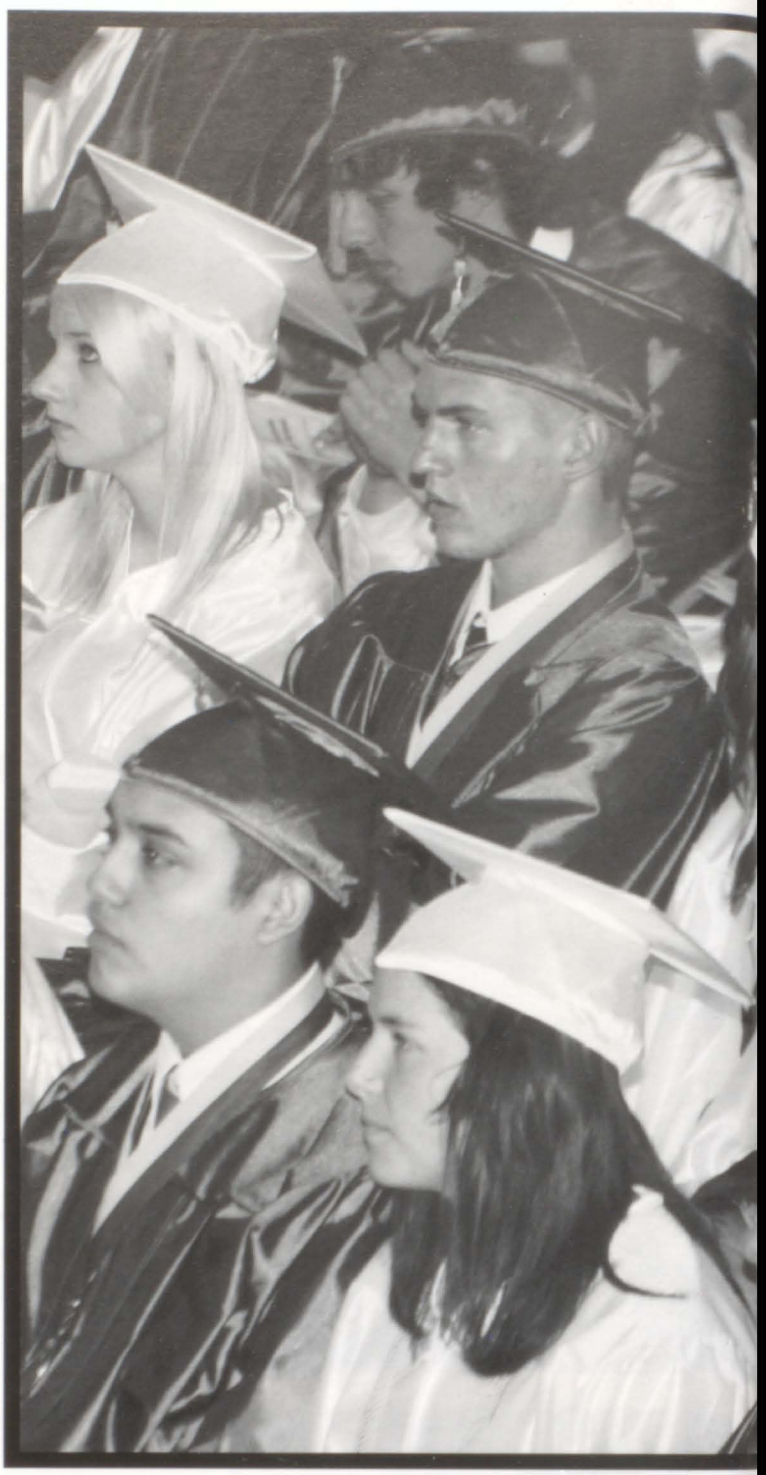

Commencement: while we usually think of this ceremony as marking the end of our high school careers, the word commencement literally means "beginning." It is a time where graduates not only reflect on the past, but really start to think about the future that is just beginning for each and every member of the class of 2011.

Though this year's graduation ceremony had to be pushed back by a week due to terrible winter weather, the weather could not have cooperated better on June 11. The sun was shining, the sky was blue. Friends and family members dressed in their best to watch the class of 2011 close a chapter of their lives that has spanned thirteen years and open the next.

Salutatorian Mattia Rostachak and Valedictorian Katie T. Allen both presented inspiring addresses to their classmates. The band, choir, and orchestras lent their talents to bring music to the ceremony. And by the end, 240 of Wawasee's students turned their tassels, threw their hats, and slowly left the building they had spent countless hours in over the last four years. Best of luck, Class of 2011! May you find success wherever you look.

Lacey Ritter and Brian Greig listen intently to graduation addresses.

Sam Johnson and Dustin Wolfe anxiously await their turn to walk into the gym and find their seats for their last major high school milestone.

In The Club

Clubs at Wawasee are another way for students to be involved outside of typical extracurricular activities. Some clubs, like Scrabble and Reading club, are mainly for fun and relaxation.

Other clubs, like Key Club (pictured left), try to give back to the community through service projects. FFA and DECA also rely heavily on community involvement. This year our FFA chapter attended National Convention and hosted an educational program for elementary students. DECA sent Nate Smith and Frank Dush to International competition as well, where they placed highly. Wawasee's two chess teams placed first and tenth in the state, and members of Drama Club helped put on two great shows.

Clubs are more than groups of people who like the same things. They are a great way to meet new people, learn new skills, give back to the community, and make headlines!

Think our local chapter of Future Farmers of America is just a place where students come to talk about farming? Think again! FFA is a group whose purpose is to educate people on the importance of agriculture and how it effects their daily lives.

One of FFA's most anticipated events is their annual Food for America day, where high school students create interactive presentations for 2nd graders in the district to learn about where their food comes. Mrs. Roberts, Wawasee's FFA adviser and agricultural sciences teacher, said that before they come to Food for America, some of the 2nd graders really think chocolate milk comes from brown cows!

While some may think agriculture doesn't effect them, it truly does effect each of us every day through the food we eat and the resources we use! FFA is dedicated to getting the word out about the importance of ag in our community and beyond!

FAMILY IS FOREVER

Siblings...we love them at times, and at times we may hate them. They drive us crazy, and make us wish we were an only child. We look up to them, they look up to us. In the end, we can't help but be proud to call them our siblings. Some siblings are closer than others, some see each other more. But one thing that will never change is that we will forever share an unspoken bond with them, whether we like it or not. We will forever have to call them brother or sister, forever will we have to invite them to family events, and send them birthday cards. They will forever be there when we need a helping hand. They will forever be in our hearts, because they are our siblings.

Above Right: Jake Tucco (9) says that he likes that brother Jonathan Tucco (12) helps him whenever he needs it. He also that they get along because '[they] don't argue much and have some of the same opinions on things. John agreed, saying, 'We don't fight often so it works out well.'

He also said that they sometimes get along, and are there for each other when they need to be. Cassie said that she doesn't dislike anything.

Sabrina says they are close because they have been through a lot and they know how each other feels. April said that she liked that her siblings 'are loving and caring. They always know how to be there for another.'

Bracelets were a huge trend all year! In the fall it was all about the Silly Bands--brightly colored gummy bracelets that snap back into fun shapes when you take them off. In winter, bold statement bracelets came into popularity, and by spring it was all about cuffs and old-fashioned homemade friendship bracelets. Ray Schmidt, Brandon Garman, Taylor Garrison, and Sara Buyer show off a variety of bracelets.

Fashion Forward!

For most students, the way they look is almost more important than homework and getting to class on time. Style isn't just about following the latest trends--it's taking what's out there and making it your own. Wawasee students follow a variety of styles--the bohemian "hippie" look of flowing layers, strappy sandles, and natural fabrics; the alternative of black and contrasting bright colors; all-American plain old t-shirts, jeans, and Converse; and everything in between. No matter what style they choose, Wawasee students always look great when they find their own trends and make it "theirs."

Imagine...packing up your life in a few suitcases and traveling half-way around the world to live with a family you've never met in a country you've never visited! Each year, several student do just that, spending 6-9 months right here at Wawasee High School. These students do everything a typical high school student does, but they do it in a brand new place with a bunch of strangers--and all in a foreign language! Eventually, the strangers become friends, the language becomes more familiar, and that strange new place starts to feel like home. We will all miss the students we have spent so much time getting to know over this past year!

Class Act

Class. It is what school in general is all about. It is what we have five times a day. It is what we dread, what we may love, and what we may hate. Going to class is inevitable, inescapable, unavoidable.

Class is where we learn, where we may teach, and where we spend the most of our day. It is where we grow, and discover new things. It is a familiar place. To some, it is a comfort. To others it may be looked at as a waste of time. But, like everything else, we have it for a reason.

Class helps us build character, among other things. It teaches us and shows us things we, otherwise, may of never known. It helps us learn to be on time, and to follow directions. Ideally, class teaches us class.

The classroom is where we make our friends, and where we lose them. It is where we can show our skills, and learn new ones. Class is important for our everyday life, and that is why we have it. So, hurry along. It is time to get moving, because...

Core classes. There are always a few classes a student hates, but still has to take. They are the classes that make us wonder, "When are we ever going to use this in life?" We dread going to them, hate them when we are there, and are glad when they are over and done with.

The core classes at Wawasee determine whether we graduate or not. They force their way into our schedules unwelcome. We may fight, and kick, and hate them all along the way. In the end, however, we realize how much we learned and how they truly will help us in the real world someday. As much as we may hate to admit it, we have core classes for a reason, a good reason. They may drop our GPA, keep us up at night with homework, and cause us multiple headaches, but at in the end they are good for us. They help us reach our goals of college and careers.

At 7:30am, Nate Smith sits behind the news desk and looks over his script for the day.

One of the most noticeable changes at Wawasee this year was a brand-new format for morning announcements. What was once a basic reading of student and teacher information has turned into a mini-news cast, with anchors, profiles on students, staff, and extracurriculars, and even national and world news! Community member Bill Dixon saw the need at Wawasee and decided to lead interested students in learning the audio-visual and on-camera positions of a typical news team. Not only have his efforts made morning announcements more enjoyable and exciting, but it has lead to the creation of a new broadcast media class for the 2011-2012 school year! The broadcast students are off to a great start, and are sure to continue to make improvements in the future.

Each year, some Wawasee students go above and beyond basic high school requirements by taking a variety of advanced (AP and ACP) classes. Though these classes require an enormous amount of work, students are rewarded with higher GPAs, unique and challenging experiences, college credit, and an end-of the year field trip to Chicago!

Outside, across the parking lot, there is a building where students are learning a different type of science–agricultural science. Here they learn about animals large and small, find out what chemical properties good and bad soil have, discover the basics to growing and maintaining plants and flowers, and learn about the environment around us.

Smoke Signals

a student publication for students, by students

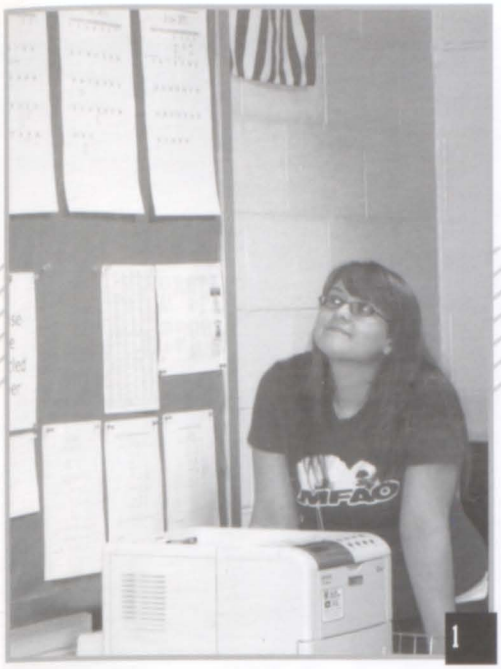

Every few weeks, everyone at Wawasee has the chance to read a publication completely written, edited, and put together by their peers. It's Smoke Signals, the Wawasee High School newspaper.

This year's staff was headed up by their adviser Mrs. Wade, who encouraged the young group of writers to come up with new and original ideas for articles and designs. They even offered a prize for completing the puzzle section on the back.

Part way through the year, things changed and Mr. Hopkins stepped up to lead the staff through the publication of the annual literary magazine, where any student has the opportunity to submit their own works of art and writing for publication. They focused on developing a unique layout and theme for the lit mag, and their hard work shows!

THE LEGEND

The yearbook is like a snapshot of a school year. Just as the school year is packed with activities and events, so should the yearbook be. A few brave students take on the task of completing this important snapshot in time. They work all year, creating layouts, writing stories, taking pictures, interviewing students, and selling business ads in order to provide this memory book to students and the school. Staff members also faced the challenge of learning the ropes along with their brand new adviser, Ms. Short! Along the way, strong bonds are formed on staff (Right: Holly Shenefield and Andrea Polman share the love).

While some may not appreciate it in its own time, preferring instead to try to forget their high school years, in time the yearbook becomes a place for people to remember the good times as they have forgotten about the not-so-good times. Creating this book is an important, challenging, and fun undertaking!

After Hours

After a long hard school day the students of Wawasee High School pack up their books and make their way over to friends houses, part-time jobs or home to work on that tough English assignment. Whatever the agenda, we all have after school activities that we love to do and some we don't. After school everyone wants to just relax and let our minds process all the important information we learned throughout the day. Some aren't so lucky and don't get to veg out in front of the TV. Many kids around here work after school, some at our local fast food chains or some work along side their parents in the family business. Senior Ben Homan works with Cody Paul at the local coffee shop, faithfully serving their fellow class mates and community with a fresh brew everyday. When asked about what she does after school Jenifer Thystrup said "When I don't have musical or drama practice I ride my horses".

Going the Distance

SUPERMILEAGE

Going for Speed...

SUPERSTARS

Getting the Glory!

Every year a team of Wawasee students takes going to class to a whole new level. Under the guidance of Mr. Coblentz, this group of students design and build high milage race cars from scratch. The goal is to use diferent types of fuel to power extremely light cars the farthest distance on the least amount of fuel. At this year's Shell Eco-Marathon and Supermileage competition held in Houston, Texas, teams high schools and universities from across the United States competed with these lightweight, fuel efficient cars. With one car, this group placed 9th in their division, and with the other they won top honors! These students put in a lot of hard work both during and after school and should be commended for their achievements.

Below: Another of the cars on display (with a check representing the prize money the team won).

Below Middle: Cynthia Valdizon performed a beautiful version of Paramore's "The Only Exception."

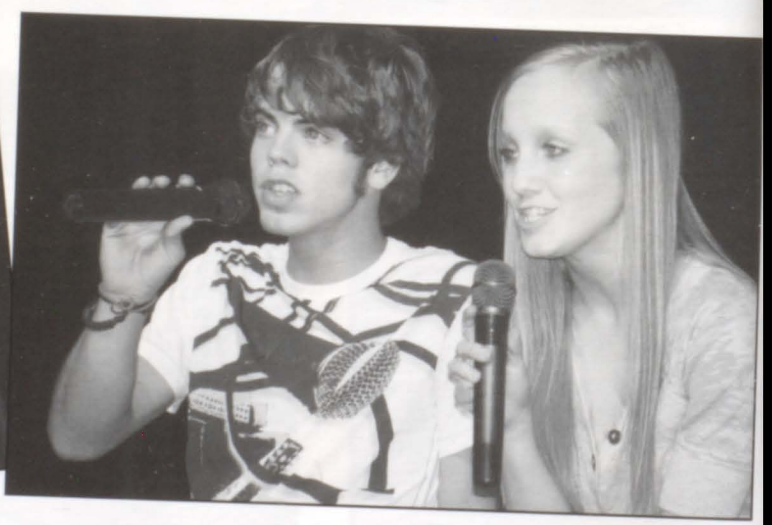

Manuel Caballero and Katie Crosby lsang a crowd favorite-Journey's "Don't Stop Believin'." By the end, the whole auditorium was singing along.

Nathan Brady and Alona Scott sang a sweet duet--Colbie Cailla and Jason Mraz's "Lucky".

Senior Talent Show

Every year during the last few weeks of school, the seniors have one more chance to put on a show before leaving the halls of Wawasee forever. They give up a Friday night to come back to school and sit in the auditorium as their classmates showcase their talents--from the serious to the tongue-in-cheek--one final time. This year's talent show was especially great. Students who had never performed before got on stage to be recognized by their peers. There were several great musical acts and two memorable dance numbers (though each were memorable for completely different reasons!). Though the talent show had to compete with a rescheduled tournament softball game and the art show, the turnout was great and the audience was wildly supportive. Good luck to these seniors! Never forget how far your talents can take you!

Left: Garley Windle surprised the crowd with his many talents--he sang and played guitar on two songs, and even broke out the harmonica for one.

Right: Zakk Young and Angel Reyes became the Blues Brothers during their lip-sync.

Above: Leanza Reyes perfored with both Garley Windle and Nathan Brady.

Taylor Pieper and Katie T. Allen have spent over half their lives dancing and performed a beautiful contemporary routine.

Everyone Has A... Hidden Talent

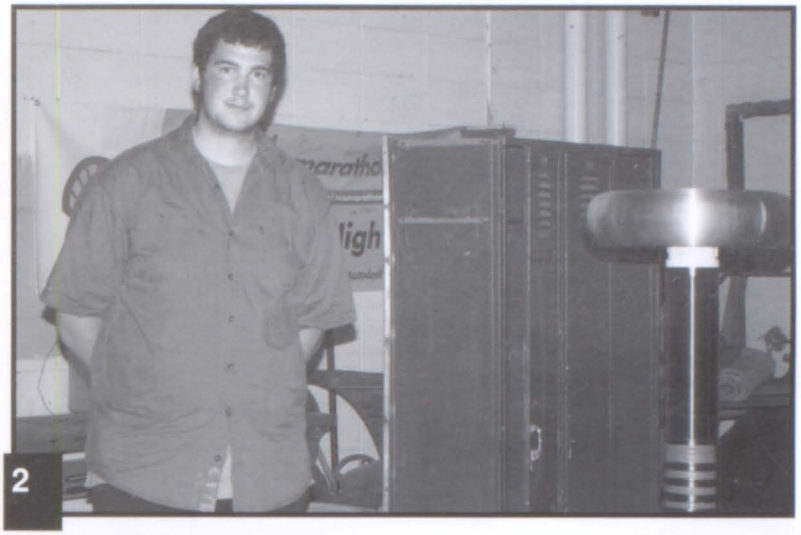

In high schools, students tend to be labeled and put in to groups--he's a slacker, she's a drama nerd, he's a jock. These groups and labels are often based on what we witness these people doing at school--the friends they spend time with, the classes they take, the teams and clubs they are on. But our lives don't start and end when we come to school in the morning and leave at night. After school and on the weekends, most students have interests that go outside of school-sanctioned events. Some of the things your classmates do outside of school might even surprise you!

Right: Dakota D'Amore is a sophomore at Wawasee. When he's not in school he works with his dad on building and racing their own remote-controlled cars. Dylan has become pretty sucessful at this and has even won a few races. In this picture he shows of one of his cars at the outdoor race track.

1. Like Dakota, Chris Fleming is also into racing--although he helps build and race full size cars.
2. Matt Siri build his own generator that creates actual miniature lightening--all on his own time at home.
3. Coty Miller and Brandon Garman perform in their own band at coffehouses around the area.
4. Jennifer Thystrup isn't just involved at school--she also rides horses in her little spare time.

We asked, you answered:

What's YOUR Hidden Talent?

"Quote Me"

Ben Johnson

"I can put both legs behind my head. I saw someone do it on TV so I'm like, 'if he can do it, I can do it!'"

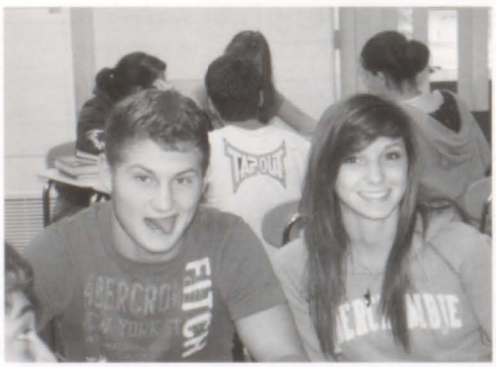

Ashley Helfers

"I can crochet. I taught myself, and entered something in the county fair and won first place."

Madi Herendeen

"I can fold my tongue into a three-leaf clover. I've always been able to do it, since at least kindergarten."

Familiar Faces

As the years go by and we leave the halls of Wawasee forever, there are some faces we will forget, and some we will always keep in our minds.

Faces that laughed when we laughed, and cried when we cried. Faces we rolled our eyes at and faces that brought smiles to our own faces. Faces of our best friends and our worst enemies. Faces that made us wonder about the people behind them.

No matter how we felt about particular faces, each person in this school makes it what it is. Each is important to the makeup of our student body, our school spirit. In this section you will find each of these faces–the ones you loved and the ones you never even knew. But whatever the situation, behind each face there is a story; behind every picture there is a headline waiting to be written.

Senior Celebration!

Thirteen years of hard work starts to pay off--literally--for some students before graduation. Wawasee High School is blessed with a supportive community who awarded over seventy scholarships to students who meet a variety of qualifications. Students with Honors diplomas, Academic Hall of Fame members, and Graduates of Distinction and Highest Distinction are also honored and awarded. This night serves as a sneak peek to the great things our seniors are bound to achieve.

So Long SENIORS!

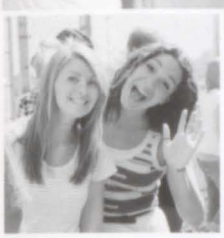

what will we be when we grow up?
maybe we never will...

making more headlines

Wawasee had a year in the headlines. From the first day of school and the parking lot car fire to the graduation ceremony where 240 students became high school graduates, school events and students achievements have been in the headlines. Many of our sports teams had successful seasons, the music and drama departments put on amazing shows and concerts. Social Studies and English Academic Superbowl lead the state along with the chess team. DECA and the Supermileage team gained national honors. We've been through the highest highs and some of us have experienced the lowest lows, but we all came through it together and with new experiences under our belts. Whether you have three more years at Wawasee or will never walk these halls again, each student has the ability to continue making headlines. Even if you aren't in the newspaper, your personal achievements are just as significant in the long run. So get out there and keep striving, keep working, and keep making headlines.

Kaylin Rogers boards her bus for the last time as a freshman.

Mrs. Harris, Mr. Hopkins, and Mrs. Keifer do the traditional last wave as the buses leave on the last day of school.

Nate-
